Marlon Pineda-Enamorado, 38, was charged with arson after authorities said he barricaded six people inside a burning home in Robertsedale on New Year's Day, WPMI reported, citing the city's police department. Authorities said he will also face attempted murder charges and has an immigration hold. "The suspect had used an accelerant, gasoline, to light several mattresses on fire inside his room and causing the entire home to be filled with smoke," Robertsedale Police Lt. The caption read, "When they try to count you out, you make em' count you in. We beat the odds." The hashtags #HAPPYNEWYEAR and #NEWHOME accompanied Garth's joyous post. Exactly one year later, New Year's Day 2023, Garth was found bleeding to death in the driveway of that home after police and family say Yarbrough shot her multiple times during a domestic dispute. "She was excited to move into a bigger house for her and her kids," Garth's sister, Miracle Scott, said in an interview with AL.com. "She didn't think it would be the place she died too." Garth, a 26-year-old mother of two daughters – ages 3 years old and 8 months old – died Sunday morning after her family said she was shot five times while trying to shield her 3-year-old, who hid under a car in the driveway of the family's home on Oakdale Ridge Lane, family and police said. Yarbrough, 20, is charged with capital murder. Charging documents against him state the charge is capital because Garth was killed in front of her 3-year-old daughter. A Limestone County judge on Tuesday ordered Yarbrough be held without bond. That ruling noted that Yarbrough was convicted in 2019, at the age of 16, of another crime. The News Courier reported that year that Yarbrough was charged in the shooting of three other juveniles.

Police said they responded to a burglary call on Rockdale Circle around 9 a.m., when an officer spotted a man beating another man on the side of the road. After separating them, the officer discovered the man being attacked was also shot. The officer applied a tourniquet to stop the bleeding, police said, and the victim was taken to the hospital. He has since been released. An investigation found that Frederick Maurice Sherman, 60, and Eugene Thomas Days, 28, believed the victim was breaking into their home, so they confronted him. Police said the men chased the victim off the property and out of the neighborhood. He was later assaulted and shot a half-mile away at the entrance to the Lake Commons subdivision, police said. "We learned the male that got shot and beat used to live at the residence, and based on a medical condition, believed he was trying to enter his own home. Force to enter was not used," police said. "The victim was not armed and was shot and then beaten by the suspects." Sherman, the alleged shooter, faces charges of aggravated assault and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon during the commission of a crime, police said. Days faces a battery charge. Sherman is being held at the Gwinnett County Jail, while Days was released Thursday evening on a $2,400 bond. Police said the victim isn't facing any charges because he had no criminal intent and wasn't a threat, due to the attack taking place so far from the residence.

Dunwoody police received a call about shots fired in the DeKalb County mall's food court at about 4:45 p.m., spokesman Sgt. Michael Cheek told reporters at the scene Friday night. The victim and suspect were stable when taken to Grady Memorial Hospital. Cheek said the suspect and victim "met up, some words were exchanged and shots were fired" during the isolated incident. The suspect was injured when the victim returned fire. The suspect fled the scene after the shooting and was arrested about 45 minutes later at the Pleasantdale Crossing Apartments, about 7 miles from the mall, Cheek confirmed. Cheek said most patrons evacuated the mall for their own safety. Vynnessa Smith, 32, hadn't been inside the mall for even five minutes before she heard a round of gunshots coming from the food court. Chaos erupted with children and several people running in every direction trying to find a way out. "It was about five gunshots," Smith told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. "I probably won't be going back anytime soon. I don't want to have to be thinking about where the closest emergency exit is."

66	1/13/23	10:30 AM	Carol Robinson	AL.com	AL	Birmingham			Burglary	Band of Masked Men Carry Out Brazen Smash-and-Grab at Birmingham Apple Store	An investigation is underway after a brazen theft in the Birmingham Apple store at the Summit shopping center Friday morning. At least three masked men ran into the store just before 10:30 a.m. They started breaking locks on the display cabinets, grabbing as many phones as they could before they left the store. "They went straight for the merchandise and ran out," said Birmingham police spokesman Officer Truman Fitzgerald. There were multiple customers inside the store at the time of the smash-and-grab. The suspects fled the scene in a dark SUV. Police investigators quickly notified the Apple store in Huntsville as a precaution. "We're going to be looking into if this is a ring or not," Fitzgerald said. It wasn't immediately clear how much merchandise was stolen. "For any group of individuals to go into one of our busiest shopping areas during business hours," Fitzgerald said, "just goes to show you how bold the criminal element is in our society." "Let us point out that a phone taken from the Apple store is completely useless," Fitzgerald said. "For anybody out there who gets this idea, these are phones that haven't been activated. Apple's security allows for the phone to be of no use until it's activated." "Your putting your life and other people's lives in danger for nothing," he said.

He faces multiple charges, including child molestation, aggravated child molestation, aggravated assault with intent to rape, first-degree cruelty to children and terroristic threats. 115	1/24/23		Henri Hollis	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA	Atlanta		3rd St	Auto Theft	Man Arrested After Shooting at Driver Stealing His Car in Midtown, Police Say	A man whose car was stolen in Midtown Atlanta on Tuesday night found himself facing charges after he pulled a gun and fired at the suspected thief, authorities said. Christopher Rice, 28, of Lawrenceville, stepped away from his car but left it running near the intersection of 3rd and Myrtle streets, Atlanta police said. An unknown suspect hopped in and began to drive away. At that point, Rice pulled a gun and fired it at the driver, police said. When officers arrived, they placed Rice under arrest on a reckless conduct charge. Rice's car was recovered later Tuesday night, but the suspected thief was not found. According to attorney Chuck Boring, a former deputy chief district attorney in Cobb County and Judicial Qualifications Commission director, Georgia state law allows people to use some force to prevent certain crimes like theft or trespass, but not if the force is likely to be deadly or intended to kill. Deadly force, such as using a firearm, is permitted in cases where it might prevent a forcible felony, said Boring, who is now a partner at Robbins Alloy Belinfante Littlefield, LLC. A forcible felony involves physical force or violence against a victim. "In the case of a carjacking, where someone is trying to pull you out of a car or pointing a gun at you, it's a different story," Boring said. Police said the investigation into Tuesday's car theft remains open.

127	1/27/23	5:20 AM	Henri Hollis & John Spink	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA		DeKalb County		Arson	Investigation Opened After Man Found Dead in DeKalb Apartment Fire	A man was found dead inside a DeKalb County apartment complex after firefighters extinguished a suspicious blaze Friday morning, officials said. Firefighters were called to Creekside Corners near Lithonia around 5:20 a.m., DeKalb fire spokesman Capt. Jaeson Daniels said. When they arrived, a resident told them that someone was still inside one of the apartments. Crews quickly extinguished the flames before beginning their search. Most residents were able to escape the complex, but firefighters searching the building found a man dead, Daniels said. Initial calls reported the possibility of a child being trapped in the fire, but the child and mother were able to escape. The fire was contained to a single unit and appeared to start in either the kitchen or the living room. Firefighters were able to save the rest of the building. Demetrius Smith, who told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution she is the grandmother of the child who escaped the burning apartment, said the fire may have been set intentionally. Smith went to the scene after her daughter called her while she was on a break at work. "She called me and told me that her child's father tried to kill her and the baby," Smith said. "He set the kitchen on fire with grease and then tried to keep them from leaving the apartment." Smith said that after her daughter escaped, she tried to convince the man to leave the apartment, but he turned back inside and was on fire. "He had issues anyway, but not to this extent where I think he would kill himself or harm her or his child," Smith said.

Fayette sheriff's deputies were called to the home on Hickory Avenue about a person being shot around 1:30 p.m. When they arrived, they found the boy with what appeared to be a gunshot wound. It was later determined that the child was struck by "a projectile that traveled through an interior wall." As deputies rendered aid to the victim, they heard what they believed was a single gunshot inside the home. Deputies immediately moved the boy and family members to safety and learned that 29-year-old Spencer Dylan Harris, who allegedly fired the initial shot, was the only person left inside the house. The sheriff's office SWAT team and negotiators were called in, and the child, who was described as alert and talking to first responders, was taken to Children's Healthcare of Atlanta at Egleston Hospital. Harris was eventually taken into custody after a robot was deployed by the SWAT team to locate him following multiple failed attempts to make contact. Investigators later learned that an earlier altercation resulted in Harris discharging a firearm, after which a family member wrestled the weapon from him, the sheriff's office said. Harris then grabbed another firearm, which is when the family escaped. Harris faces an aggravated assault charge and was taken to the Fayette County jail.

Town	[4/10/2023] A Newton County man has been charged with murder, rape and multiple other felonies in connection with a brutal double stabbing that rattled a tiny town in northeast North Carolina. Aulander is a township with less than a thousand residents in Bertie County, about 20 miles south of the Virginia border and about 115 miles northeast of Raleigh. In February, sheriff's deputies responded to a stabbing call and found an 80-year-old woman dead and her 62-year-old caretaker in critical condition, but no suspect. The victims were identified as Lan Thi Rawls, who died, and Rochelle Harrell, who was flown to a hospital in Greenville, North Carolina, due to the severity of her injuries. Harrell remains in the hospital in critical condition. More than six weeks after the Feb. 20 stabbing, officials identified Robert Tyjuan Reid of Covington as the suspect. Reid was located in Georgia and arrested on charges of first-degree forcible rape, first-degree murder, attempted first-degree murder and two counts of first-degree kidnapping, among other counts, the sheriff's office said. Officials did not say why Reid was in Aulander when the incident took place or what motive led him to allegedly stab the two women. Officials did not share Reid's age, but he appears to be significantly younger than both Rawls and Harrell. In late February, shaken residents of Aulander held a vigil in Rawls' honor, Fox 8 reported. "She would always come by, walk by, and give the children stuff in town. Tootsie Rolls ... that's why we called her the 'Tootsie Roll Lady'," James Futrell told the news station.

His Family is Accused of Letting it Happen	[05.26.2023] A teenage father in Durham is charged with killing his 6-month-old daughter in February, and his family is accused of letting it happen. The family of James Galan Cruz, 17, was arrested this month in connection with his arrest on first-degree murder and felony child abuse charges. Galan Cruz, accused of killing his daughter on Feb. 25, was prohibited from providing unsupervised care of the child by the Durham County Department of Social Services due to a "previous incident in which the child sustained serious bodily injury from the father," an arrest warrant indicates. His sister, Karen Galan Cruz, 20, and their parents Israel Cruz, 33 and Ana Raquel Cruz Calix, 44, were arrested May 1 and charged with negligent child abuse causing serious bodily injury. The child suffered serious injuries that proved to be fatal, including spinal cord hemorrhaging and fracture of two vertebra, arrest warrants allege. The family members are accused of committing "a grossly negligent omission" by allowing James Galan Cruz to take care of his child, according to an arrest warrant. He was at his parent's house at the time. Galan Cruz is being held in a juvenile facility, but his case was moved to Superior Court where he will be tried as an adult, the Durham County District Attorney's office confirmed. Police told The News & Observer that officers found the child already dead after responding to a Feb. 25 call to a home on the 100 block of Windrush Lane. On Oct. 19, 2022, officers had previously responded to a report of an aggravated assault at the same address and found the child — then 2 months old — had been physically assaulted, according to police. An investigation resulted in a felony child abuse charge against a 17-year-old male this past January. The N&O has asked police why it took several months to charge the suspect and arrest him.

The suspect, Tywan Grooms, was supposed to be under house arrest with an ankle monitor after he was charged with murder in 2021. But in the month leading up to the incident, Grooms' monitor was repeatedly left off and uncharged for days at a time while he came and went from home at all hours of the day, Grooms' attorney, Meghan Eigenbrot, said in court. Shots were fired at a party and a 19-year-old woman in the backseat of a vehicle was hit in the upper body and mouth by gunfire, according to the sheriff's department and court testimony. The woman was taken to an area hospital where she was placed on a ventilator and intubated while awaiting surgery for her injuries. She's in critical condition, according to the release. On Thursday, circuit court Judge Debra McClaslin revoked Groom's bond from his past murder charge, ordering that he be incarcerated at Alvin S. Glenn Detention Center.

Bruce Andre Hines, 45, of Atlanta, was taken into custody March 5, one day after a woman reported that he had raped her, DeKalb police confirmed. She was awakened when an ambulance pulled up alongside her and the paramedics told her she needed to move. One of the paramedics, later identified as Hines, said he would take the woman to a safe location. The officer said the woman told him Hines got out of the ambulance and into her car, then drove her to an unknown location and raped her. Hines then had the woman call a friend to come get them, the officer said, and the woman's friend dropped Hines off at his truck on Glenwood Road. Later that morning, the woman called 911 from the parking lot of a QuikTrip on Covington Highway, where the officer responded and called in the report. Hines was booked into the DeKalb jail on one count each of rape and aggravated sodomy, online records show. He remains in jail.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Department said that Brandon Augustine, 24, and Mildred Chestnut, 23, were taken into custody on Thursday night. Both are charged with felony child abuse inflicting serious injury. In April, police held a news conference alerting the public about arrest warrants for both parents. Diane Augustine, Brandon Augustine's mother, had reported them missing about three weeks before. "Detectives issued warrants or signed warrants on March 21 against Mildred Chestnut and Brandon Augustine, the mother and the father of the child for felony intentional child abuse inflicting serious injury," Maj. Luke Sell of CMPD's Special Investigation Bureau said during the briefing. The department's fugitive task force found the couple's car in Austell, Georgia on March 21. Austell is 262 miles southwest of Charlotte and about 17 miles outside of Atlanta. "Their vehicle was obviously abandoned and intentionally hidden," Sells said. In March, Brandon Augustine's mother said she was under the assumption her son and his fiancée were in the hospital due to a car crash, which her grandson was also in. "They went because of the accident, and they were there for days, a couple of days, and then they got the flu," she said. CMPD said doctors alerted their officers to the hospital where the child was. "The severity of the child's injuries were not consistent with a minor crash, as the parents insisted," Sell said.

463	3/21/23	10:00 PM	Ted Clifford	The State	SC	Sumter			Shooting	Father Gunned Down His Sons, Their Half-Sister in Sumter Murder-Suicide, Police Say	Around 10 p.m. Tuesday, Charles Slacks Jr. shot his two sons, aged 5 and 6, along with their half sister and another man inside the children's Sumter home, police say. He then turned his gun on himself in front of his children's mother, according to law enforcement. These details were revealed at a news conference Wednesday afternoon by Sumter Police Chief Russell Roark. The five deaths involving at least one member of the military has shaken the city, which has had close ties with the military since 1941, Roark said. "We're not conditioned to bury children," Roark said. Slacks entered the home with a key and proceeded to the back of the house, where he fired several shots at a 38-year-old male, according to Roark. Slacks proceeded upstairs, where the children were sleeping, with the mother of his children in pursuit. As she followed him up the stairway, Slacks pointed the weapon at her, Roark said. Blocked by Slacks — with her phone charging upstairs — the mother of three ran back outside to try to find the phone of the man who had been shot. While unable to find it, she heard several shots. Holliday then ran back inside of the house, finding Slacks at the top of the stairs. "He put the weapon to his head and committed suicide," Roark said. She discovered the bodies of her children: brothers 5-year-old Aayden Holliday-Slacks, 6-year-old Aason Holliday-Slacks and their 11-year-old half sister, Ava Holliday. Asked about motive, Roark said that the investigation was still in the very early stages, but theorized that Slacks and Holliday shared custody.

A shootout in Valley Grande over the weekend — leaves one man dead — another man behind bars — and a third man in the hospital. Dallas County Sheriff Mike Granthum says the incident happened at around Saturday at a house on County Road 240. He said it appears to have been a drug deal — that went bad. We picked up well over 20—something shell casings in the house,” said Granthum. “Everybody sustained gunshot wounds, all three subjects. Mister Childers received a gunshot wound to his hand area.” He says Mathews is in the hospital — in critical condition. “You know nobody wins in this situation. I mean, we got a young man that’s 21 years old that’s dead.” “And you know, people need to know I mean the dope game, it’s only two ways the dope game can go. 512	3/28/23		Carol Robinson	AL.com	AL	Birmingham		Fourth Ave	Shooting	Shooting Outside Birmingham's East Lake Park Leaves 2 Wounded	A shooting outside of Birmingham's East Lake Park Tuesday afternoon left two men wounded, one of them seriously. Birmingham police at 12:40 p.m. received a call of person shot in the 8100 block of Fourth Avenue. When they arrived, they found an adult male near the tennis courts who had been shot, said Officer Truman Fitzgerald. His injury is not believed to be life-threatening. While officers were at that scene, they received a report of a second person shot in the 8900 block of Glendale Drive in South East Lake. Investigators quickly surmised the two shootings were likely linked. At the Glendale Drive scene, police found a man inside a white sedan who also had been shot. There were bullet holes in the window of his car. Fitzgerald said police began life-saving efforts until the victim could be rushed to the hospital. Witnesses said the victim in the white sedan struck another car as he traveled along Glendale, apparently seeking safety at a home there. The city's gunfire detection system – Shot Spotter – alerted Birmingham police to nearly 40 rounds fired shortly after 9:30 a.m. in an area police have been called to more than once in recent days. Those shots rang out in the 500 block of 12th Street S.W. and nearby Fulton Avenue, said Officer Truman Fitzgerald. When they ended, the victim was dead on the sidewalk. Fitzgerald said the victim was killed in a shootout. There were shell casings around the victim which leads investigators to believe the victim either fired shots or was preparing to do so when he was gunned down. A weapon was recovered from the victim. "There were different shell casings around the victim," Fitzgerald said. "Either he had somebody with him shooting or he was shot in close proximity to where he was found." A patrol officer en route to the crime saw a male running from the location. He was detained. "We're going to question him and see about his involvement in this case," Fitzgerald said. A law enforcement helicopter circled above the scene. "We believe our suspects fled on foot," Fitzgerald said. West Precinct officers have responded to the shooting location in previous days. "Officers pointed out there have been problems in this area with groups shooting back and forth with one another," Fitzgerald said. "The occupants have been feuding with a different group." The victim is the city's third homicide since Sunday and the eighth in eight days.

Videos captured by pedestrians showed the chaos as crowds of students and beachgoers fled in panic from the picturesque beach, just north of Charleston. First responders, some already on the beach breaking up fights between the teens, attempted to shield those nearby when shots rang out. Bystanders also rushed to help, offering clothing to help stop the flow of blood from wounds, said Isle of Palms Police Chief Kevin Cornett at a Saturday morning press conference. "It is devastating to me that we have a community anywhere where children are injured, where children are involved in violence, where children think it is OK to commit any violent act," Cornett said. The Isle of Palms Police Department confirmed two arrests for weapon possession following the shooting but have been unable to verify whether either suspect was involved in the shooting. Shawn Alexander Martin-Goods, 18, was arrested in a municipal parking lot for possession of a firearm. Also arrested, according to Cornett, was a 16-year-old juvenile for possession of a stolen firearm and unlawful carrying of a firearm. Cornett confirmed that handguns were seized from both teenagers, who were booked at the Charleston County jail. On Friday, hundreds of teenagers showed up on the wide, sandy beach surrounded by grassy dunes to celebrate "senior skip day."

Atmore police say their on-call investigator received a report April 8 of a sexual assault victim who was being treated for injuries at a Mobile hospital. The victim told the investigator she had been driven to Atmore the evening before by 35-year-old Ronald Coley and, once they arrived in Atmore, Coley became "enraged" and dragged the victim into a wooded area where he physically and sexually assaulted her. Coley fled the scene on foot, while the victim drove herself to the hospital in Mobile. Examination revealed the woman suffered three broken ribs and severe bruising to the neck, arms, legs and abdomen. A warrant was issued for Coley's arrest on charges of 1st-degree rape, 1st-degree sodomy, 2nd degree domestic violence/assault, domestic violence/strangulation, and interfering with a domestic violence emergency call — levied because Coley reportedly threw the victim's phone into the woods before fleeing the scene. Kenneth Nathaniel Sanders, 32, is charged with capital murder in the shooting death of his wife, 32-year-old Jessica Brown. The ordeal began about 12:45 p.m. when police received a call about a domestic incident at the couple's Enclave home. The couple's four children – who range in age from 12 to 5 – were home during the dispute and one of them went to a neighbor's house where 911 was called. When an officer arrived at the home, said Fultondale Police Chief Marcel Walker, Brown answered the door. "Her husband snatched her back inside," the chief said. Moments later, the officer heard gunshots and had to retreat until backup arrived. A five-hour standoff ensued. The children were not harmed and were taken from the scene by family members. The standoff ended when police fired tear gas into the home. The charge against Sanders is capital because it happened in front of their children, Walker said. Court records show Sanders was indicted in December 2022 on a domestic violence/strangulation charge that listed Brown as the victim. That alleged incident happened in 2020 and was set to go to trial Sept. 11. Walker also credited assistance by Gardendale police and the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office SWAT team.

Titman is accused of leaving the scene of the collision before she was taken into custody later on April 23 at a gas station at the intersection of Sutton Road and S.C. 160, Miller said. Anna Jorgensen, 52, of Lancaster, was identified as the passenger on the motorcycle who died at the scene April 23, York County Coroner Sabrina Gast said in a written statement. The wreck happened after 1 a.m. on April 23, Miller said. Titman was driving a Jeep that allegedly struck Jorgensen after Jorgensen was in the road, Miller and the arrest warrant stated. The victim had been a passenger on the motorcycle before the motorcycle fell on the road, troopers and the coroner said. The arrest warrant states Jorgensen was lying in the roadway when she was run over. Jorgensen died from her injuries as a result of the collision, the warrant states. “The defendant did so, knowing that her vehicle had run over a person without intent or effort to report the incident to authorities, obtain help for the victim, or otherwise fulfill her obligations as required by state law,” the warrant states. 701	4/24/23		Rosana Hughes	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA	Covington	Newton County		Larceny	Guns, Ammunition Stolen Out of Covington Chief's Police Vehicle	A metro Atlanta police chief's guns, ammunition and other items were stolen from his police vehicle while he was away at a training conference late last month, according to the Rockdale Citizen. Covington police Chief Stacey Cotton's two department-issued guns and ammunition valued at $600 each, some cash, a chief's badge and a badge wallet, a magazine holster, miscellaneous keys and checks were all stolen, the newspaper reported. On April 24, Cotton parked his department-issued Chevrolet Tahoe in his driveway before leaving for the conference. In a hurry to catch a flight, he didn't pause to check if his doors were fully closed and locked, according to a Newton County Sheriff's Office incident report obtained by the Citizen. Cotton told deputies he was rushing to remove two bags of clothes from the vehicle, and with his hands full, he pushed the door closed with his shoulder or hip. Thinking the door had fully closed, he closed the garage door and pushed the lock button on the patrol vehicle's key fob, the newspaper reported. But the noise from the garage door likely prevented him from hearing the beep confirming that the vehicle was locked. Two days later, a passerby noticed a small black bag discarded on Elks Club Road and found the chief's badge in the bag, according to the paper. The person turned the bag over to Covington police, and the sheriff's office was called to investigate. Inside the bag were the checks and keys. The other items were not recovered. Both guns were listed as stolen in the state's crime information database.

On Tuesday, a fight involving a knife attack broke out at around 10 a.m. outside of a classroom at Ridge View High School on Hard Scrabble Road, according to police. The 16-year old student was stabbed with a knife multiple times and was taken to a hospital. A 17-year-old has been charged in the attack, according to the Richland County Sheriff's Department. Attorney John Mobley, who is representing the stabbing victim, said that the victim is a model student. He is an honors student, a varsity football player and a member of the wrestling team. "Anytime there's a violent crime at our schools, it's a matter of public interest," Mobley said. In the days prior to Tuesday's attack, the same person who stabbed the student assaulted him with a pair of brass knuckles and stole jewelry and other items from him, according to the lawsuit. During the fight, no school employees were present, according to the lawsuit. The student suffered five severe stab wounds — two to the arm, two to the stomach and one to the back — before he had to "wander bleeding through the hallway in order to get medical attention," Mobley said. Mobley said the student's parents, like many Ridge View parents, are frustrated, saddened and fearful about the amount of crime that occurs at the school. According to the lawsuit, Ridge View High School has seen more than 25 reports of assaults on campus and nine reports of weapon violations on campus since January 2018.

Around midnight Saturday, deputies responded to a residence on Fred Freeland Road in Grand Bay after a report of a shot fired. Entering the home, they found a male subject, identified as Oliver Turner, dead from an apparent gunshot wound. The homeowner, 80-year-old Lee Eubanks, told deputies Turner was a friend who had been living in Eubanks' home for several days. Saturday night, Turner had been "drinking heavily and acting belligerently," Eubanks said. With Turner becoming increasingly "out of his mind," Turner attempted to set the home on fire with himself, Eubanks and his niece, Michelle Jones, and Jones' 8-year-old daughter inside. Jones and the child were residents in Eubanks' home. Jones told deputies she returned home Saturday night and also found Turner acting belligerently and, not long after arriving, discovered the exterior of the house was on fire. Jones also stated she had at one point tried to go to bed, but Turner dragged her into a bathroom and tried to pour acetone on her. Jones fled the bathroom and ran to get her daughter, she said. After taking the child outside and placing her inside a vehicle, Jones ran back in to check on Eubanks and went into her room to retrieve a revolver for protection. As she exited the bedroom, Turner approached her and she fired one shot out of fear for her life. Investigators noticed scratch marks on Jones' neck and a minor injury to her right-hand palm. Investigators found Turner had an extensive criminal history which included a 2021 arrest for 1st-degree arson. Once the investigation is complete, the sheriff's office will turn the case over to the district attorney's office to present to a grand jury.

Deion Duwane Patterson, 24, faces a murder charge and four counts of aggravated assault in the attack that left one woman dead and four others injured. He was booked into the Fulton County Jail about 10 hours after he allegedly opened fire at the Northside Hospital medical building on West Peachtree Street. He is scheduled to appear before a judge at the jail at 11:30 a.m. Thursday. Patterson had an appointment Wednesday at the Northside Midtown Medical facility on West Peachtree Street, which primarily houses doctor's offices, Atlanta police Deputy Chief Charles Hampton Jr. confirmed. Witnesses in the Laureate Medical Group's office on the 11th floor said the man opened fire in a waiting room after he was told he arrived too late to be seen. Amy St. Pierre, 38, was killed, her husband confirmed. She was an employee of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Four other women, ages 71, 56, 39 and 25, were rushed to Grady Memorial Hospital. Three of them were seriously injured and listed in critical condition late Wednesday. The fourth was said to be stable. Patterson was gone by the time police arrived at the medical facility shortly after noon. According to police, investigators believe he ran from the building, carjacked a vehicle near 14th and Williams streets and made his way into Cobb. The vehicle was later recovered from the area surrounding The Battery, where police caught up with Patterson at about 7:30 p.m. At a first appearance Thursday morning in the jail courtroom, Patterson is expected to be read his charges and procedurally denied bond. Walter Kye Herman, 29, was shot by a Motor Carrier Compliance Division officer near a Bryan County highway after he allegedly fled from a traffic stop and dragged the officer about 500 feet with his vehicle, according to the GBI. The mayor of the town of 614 people, which sits in the southeast corner of Richland County near the Congaree National Park, turned himself in to deputies Friday. Jameela Biggs, 23, and Antonio Martin, 36, are charged with murder, said Tuscaloosa Violent Crimes Unit Capt. Jack Kennedy. A medical expert examined the baby extensively over the next 24 hours, Kennedy said, and reported to investigators that the injuries were consistent with intentional physical abuse. The baby was put on life support. On May 9, both parents were charged with aggravated child abuse and booked into the Tuscaloosa County Jail. Following the baby's Thursday death, the charges were upgraded to murder. Both remain held in the county lockup.

On Saturday, May 13, the teenager's parents called Oakwood police to report their daughter missing. Oakwood Police Sergeant Chris Campbell said the teenager was last seen in their home the night before, around 11 p.m. "They woke up and found her gone," Sgt. Campbell said. Sgt. Sheriff Mike Granthum says it happened on the 9000 block of County Road 3. And over 30 shell casings were found on the scene. "Several of the bullets struck the house. She was inside the house when she got struck. And then a family member tried to take her to the hospital — had some type of mechanical problems with the vehicle and wasn't able to make it and she passed," Granthum said. The victim has been identified as 33 year old — Diane Fitts. "This is just senseless. I mean, this lady's at home in the morning trying to cook breakfast for her family. And then a rapid gunfire at around 8 o'clock in the morning." Granthum says Fitts is related to one of three suspects now facing capital murder charges in the death of a Selma five year old. The child was killed in a drive-by shooting at Valley Creek Apartments back in March — and this shooting may have been done in retaliation. "These perpetrators are a bunch of cowards is what they are," said Granthum. "They want to drive by and shoot up some people's house, not even knowing if the person you're looking for is in there." I mean you don't know if it's family members, children or what have you. And they're a bunch of cowards. Let us do our job. You don't need to retaliate because you gon' go to jail yourself."

The shooting happened during the morning commute in the southbound lanes of Ga. 400. The victim tried to follow Kasperek's car, but lost sight of it on Pendley Road, officials said. He then pulled over and called 911. While law enforcement was interviewing the victim, deputies said they were able to locate Kasperek and his statements about the incident matched the victim's. It was also determined that Kasperek was not allowed to possess or purchase a gun and ammunition due to a family violence restraining order against him, officials said. Kasperek was taken into custody on charges of aggravated assault, reckless conduct and violation of a family violence restraining order. He remains in the Forsyth County Jail without bond.

845	5/17/23	12:00 PM	Alexis Stevens	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA	Atlanta	Fulton County	Howell Mill Rd	Shooting	Shooting at West Midtown Apartments Leads to 5-Hour Search for Suspect, Arrest	A search for a shooting suspect in west Midtown Atlanta lasted nearly five hours Wednesday afternoon, leaving an apartment complex and nearby restaurants on high alert as law enforcement swarmed the area. But shortly after 5 p.m., the search came to a peaceful end when negotiators convinced the man to surrender from a unit at The Brady Apartments. 38-year-old Ryan Andrews was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and possession of a firearm during the attempt to commit a felony. After Andrews was handcuffed and led away in a patrol car, officers were able to reopen a portion of Howell Mill Road that had been shut down while a SWAT team searched for the suspect. But the nearby Superica West Midtown restaurant remained closed for the evening. The shooting happened shortly after noon outside The Brady's leasing office, police said. Andrews was observed on video cameras shooting the victim several times with a handgun. The victim was taken to Grady Memorial Hospital, where he was stable, a police spokesperson said. Ally Sabath, who lives in the complex, told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution she was working when she heard between six and seven gunshots. When she looked outside, Sabath saw the man bent over, holding his arm and bleeding in the parking lot. He was able to make it to Superica, where an employee let him inside until an ambulance arrived. Later Wednesday, investigators determined the suspect was still in the area and believed to be in an apartment, forcing some residents to be evacuated. Within an hour of Andrews' arrest, things appeared nearly normal again in the area. Police said the incident remains under investigation.

Jeremy Haugabook, 36, of Lithonia, was taken to a hospital in critical condition but later died from his injuries, according to the GBI. A teenage resident at the home near the 2300 block of Cragstone Court off Covington Highway called 911 around 3:35 a.m. about a burglary in progress that was later determined to be a domestic dispute involving a gun, the state agency said. The caller stated they were texting with a resident who was hiding in the home and could hear his mother's boyfriend yelling. He said he believed the boyfriend, later identified as Haugabook, was going to shoot her. Police Chief Mirtha Ramos confirmed the suspect fired shots near where the woman was hiding inside the home, which caused damage to water pipes, prior to law enforcement arriving. Police said Haugabook was "experiencing a behavioral health crisis." "The female was being held against her will, against a man in the residence who had a weapon," Ramos said. When officers arrived at the scene, they got the resident out safely and attempted to negotiate with Haugabook. Ramos said the SWAT team was eventually called when Haugabook refused to come outside. The SWAT team negotiated with the suspect for another hour before deciding to enter the home, police said. At that point, Ramos said an arrest and search warrant had been obtained, and the woman had made it out of the home safely. After officers entered the home, they approached Haugabook and ordered him to drop his gun, police said. He then pointed the gun at officers and was shot by one of them, the GBI said.

On Monday afternoon, a peaceful crowd of about 70 people had gathered in the parking lot of the Shell gas station/convenience store on Parklane Road. But later Monday night, the sheriff's department said a crowd was dispersed from the business after protests turned destructive. At about 9:30 p.m., deputies said they responded to an alarm that signaled there was a break-in at the convenience store. When they arrived at the scene, deputies found shattered windows and a large crowd of people inside the store stealing merchandise, according to the sheriff's department. The Shell station was where the incident that led to the teenager's "senseless" death began, Richland County Sheriff Leon Lott said. Cyrus Carmack-Belton, a 14-year-old Columbia resident, died from a single gunshot wound, after he was shot in the back, Richland County Coroner Naida Rutherford said. The incident happened at about 8 p.m. Sunday. Carmack-Belton went in the store, and the owners suspected him of shoplifting. However, Lott said the 14-year-old did not shoplift. An argument started and the 14-year-old took off running from the store. Rick Chow, the 58-year-old owner of the Shell station, and his son chased after the teen, Lott said. Chow was armed with a pistol. During the chase, Carmack-Belton fell down and got back up. At that point, Chow shot Carmack-Belton in the back, Lott said. Lott said Carmack-Belton was thought to have been in possession of a gun during the incident. One was recovered near the teen's body, Lott said. Lott told The State Monday afternoon that an investigation found that Carmack-Belton did not point a gun

The man had an "altercation" with Russell County Water Authority employees at his home Wednesday, said Sheriff Heath Taylor. "That's what started the chain of events that ultimately led to a traffic stop of him and him presenting a weapon at the deputies on the traffic stop," Taylor told a press conference. After firing the round at the utility workers, the suspect went to the water works' office, Taylor said. Deputies responded to the office when the suspect got into his truck and fled. That's when deputies followed the suspect for five or six miles before pulling him over at U.S. Highway 431 and Ware Road. The suspect then refused deputies' orders to get out of the vehicle. As one of the deputies reached for his stun gun, the suspect pointed a gun at the deputies, who fatally shot him, Taylor said. The sheriff said he does not believe the man fired at the deputies. The State Bureau of Investigation is probing the shooting, as is standard when law enforcement officers fatally shoot a suspect. The deputies are on administrative leave with pay while the probe is ongoing, Taylor said.

The shooting took place around 1:45 a.m. on West North Street near Glenwood South, according to ABC11, The News & Observer's media partner. All three men were taken to the hospital, one with serious injuries. This shooting comes one month after North Carolina first lady Kristin Cooper questioned the "vibrancy" of Raleigh's Glenwood South district after a man tried to kick-in the door of her and Gov. Roy Cooper's private home. Cooper's comments about the night-life district were raised during a Raleigh City Council meeting last month by resident Woody Biggs, who's been asking leaders to address crime and noise in Glenwood South for months. "We have had noise issues for years. The crime issues seem to have escalated greatly in the last two years," Biggs said in an interview with The News & Observer in May. "Before the last 12 months I never heard about gunfire in Glenwood South," he continued. "Now every month I am hearing about gunfire going off in Glenwood South. While they were en route, dispatchers notified them someone had been wounded, said Officer Truman Fitzgerald. When police arrived, they found Milton unresponsive in the roadway. Birmingham Fire and Rescue Service pronounced him dead on the scene. Fitzgerald said preliminary information indicates a birthday party was taken place at the house. An argument erupted and shots were fired. Investigators recovered more than 100 spent shell casings. "We do believe it was isolated and contained to the partygoers," Fitzgerald said. He said the age group of people attending the party appeared to be 18 to 20. A crowd of at least 50 onlookers gathered at the crime scene, visibly distraught. Fitzgerald said many of those attending the party are believed to have fled after shots were fired. Police need to talk to those people, he said.

The suspect ran away from the scene, but Butts County Sheriff Gary Long said technology was a key aspect in capturing the alleged shooter. "We got cameras all over the county now -- Flock cameras -- and then we got this neighborhood, people all throughout this neighborhood with cameras," Sheriff Long said. "So our investigators, through the investigation, was able to recover surveillance footage from neighbors so this case will move really quick." Long said part of that technology from neighbors were Ring doorbell cameras who spotted the suspect. Deputies said the original call they received was for a possible home invasion, which later turned out to be a shooting. The sheriff also said there were children inside the home when the shooting went down, but none were injured.

The ordeal began Monday afternoon with a retail theft in Alabaster Monday and ended with a vehicle pursuit that traveled from Shelby County to Chilton County. Authorities said Alabaster police began the pursuit, and Calera police then assisted. Police deployed spike strips, but that was unsuccessful. Once the chase got to Chilton County, deputies there also joined in. The suspect tried to ram at least one police. He eventually ditched his vehicle and fled on foot. The search went into the night and then resumed Tuesday morning. Chilton County Sheriff John Shearon identified the suspects as John Christopher Carmada and Zelda Resha. Both are believed to have outstanding warrants, and Carmada could be a federal fugitive. The search is taking place in the Union Grove area, near Archers Chapel Methodist Protestant Church. Local landowners allowed authorities to access their property and made them aware of potential hiding spots. Shearon said the suspects were spotted Tuesday morning. He said they don't know if Carmada is armed but are considering that possibility. Chilton County deputies and Calera police remain on the scene, as well as federal agents, the Alabama Law Enforcement Agency and the Alabama Department of Corrections tracking dogs. Shearon said rain is hampering efforts to get the state helicopter in the air, and also providing a challenge for tracking dogs.

Bond was set at $2,000 on the unlawful carrying of a pistol charge and McFalls remains behind bars in the jail, records show. "This case was another example of the different police agencies, along with specialized units and divisions working together to respond, investigate, locate, and arrest a dangerous subject," said Capt. Jack Kennedy with the Tuscaloosa County Sheriff's Office's Violent Crimes Unit. Several people drove to the Tuscaloosa Police Department's West Precinct around 2 a.m. Friday asking for help, telling officers that someone in their vehicle was the victim of a shooting, said Kennedy. The VCU investigated the shooting and developed a suspect, who was not immediately able to be located. Multiple search warrants were also executed in connection with the case, which led to drugs being seized. Charges were also brought against another suspect by agents with the West Alabama Narcotics Task Force, Kennedy said.

Jaquincy Kendell Rodriguez, 22, is facing two attempted murder charges from a shooting that happened June 21, the sheriff's office said in a news release. Despite receiving several tips in the days since the shooting, none have led to the arrest of Rodriguez and the manhunt is ongoing, Sheriff Thomas Summers told The State Monday. The shooting happened in Cameron, South Carolina, according to the release. Rodriguez and two other men were arguing when the 22-year-old said he was going to shoot the others. "He went into a home and came out firing," Summers said. The victims suffered non-life-threatening injuries after each was shot in the upper body by a handgun at close range, the sheriff's office said. Summers said he believes both victims have been released from an area hospital. "This is so senseless, to try to take a life over a simple disagreement" Summers said. Deputies responded to the scene and were told that Rodriguez was still armed and had gone back inside the home. Deputies set up a perimeter and called the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, seeking help from SLED's SWAT team. At around 1:30 a.m., it was determined that Rodriguez was no longer inside the home, and the search for him was launched, the sheriff's office said. "That set off a new set of worries, we have two people who were close to this individual who he was willing to shoot and try to kill," said Summer, who added the three men might be related. "He is still armed and we need him off the street before someone else gets hurt by his hand."

1123	6/21/23	10:00 PM	Caroline Silva	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA	Marietta		Delk Rd	Stabbing	Woman Flees to Virginia After Fatally Stabbing Man At Marietta Motel, Cops Say	[6/30/2023] A woman accused of stabbing a man to death at a Marietta motel last week fled the state, only to be taken into custody hours later, police announced Friday. Keiyotta India Cooper, 30, was arrested June 21 in eastern Virginia after a traffic stop. Cooper, who is being held at the Caroline County Jail on unrelated charges, is facing charges of murder, theft by taking and felony aggravated assault in the Cobb County case, according to police. Authorities said they discovered the body of 37-year-old Dearish Morris at the Hospitality Inn along Delk Road after employees called 911 around 10 p.m. that day. The Marietta man was found dead on a bed “under extremely suspicious circumstances,” officials added. During the early phases of the investigation, deputies with the Caroline County Sheriff’s Office contacted local detectives to report that Cooper was in custody there and they suspected that she may have been involved in a homicide in Marietta. “Although investigators from the two agencies were hundreds of miles apart, they were able to piece together the circumstances behind Morris’ death only hours after it occurred,” according to Marietta police. Authorities said they were able to deduce that Cooper visited Morris at the motel around 4 p.m., and for “reasons unknown,” Cooper fatally stabbed Morris multiple times. The woman, who police said is from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, allegedly did not render aid to the victim and is accused of concealing his death from a hotel representative who knocked on the door to collect payment. Shortly after, police said Cooper took a vehicle that had been loaned to Morris and left the state. The owner of the vehicle tracked it to Virginia using a GPS device and notified authorities in that state, leading to the eventual traffic stop and arrest.

Sheriff's deputies were dispatched about 6:30 p.m. to a home in the area of Whispering Lane. Violent Crimes Unit Capt. Jack Kennedy said a report was made alleging that a family member had criminal sexual contact with children living at the home. The VCU was called to the location because the unit investigates all allegations of sexual assault within Tuscaloosa County, regardless of age of the victim and maintains a separate section of trained investigators that work the cases, he said. While awaiting the investigators' arrival, deputies made contact with the suspect in the backyard of his residence. The suspect was armed with a pistol, and began making threats of suicide, and of wanting law enforcement to kill him, Kennedy said. "Deputies established a tight perimeter and contained the suspect. All nearby civilians were moved for safety," Kennedy said. "Multiple other units arrived to assist, and this resulted in the large police presence." The suspect refused to put down his gun. Kennedy said a trained sheriff's negotiator arrived and spoke with the suspect for several hours, "but the suspect chose to shoot himself with his own firearm." Paramedics were on the scene and rendered immediate medical assistance. The suspect was critically injured and was transported to DCH Regional Medical Center where he was pronounced dead a short time later.

Camesha Johnson died June 29 after she was shot once in the shoulder, Clayton police said. According to Johnson's family, the single shot went through her shoulder and struck her heart as she sat at a BP station on the corner of Ga. 85 and Thomas Road. After the shooting, Johnson's car was found parked haphazardly in front of the station, with both of its front wheels over the curb and facing directly at a power pole. It was parked there for about two hours before someone checked on her and called 911, police confirmed. She was holding her phone in her right hand when she was found, her sister Jeffrica Hunter told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Officers were called to the BP shortly before midnight after getting reports of a person shot, police said. They notified Charles Johnson, Camesha's husband, that she was dead and he immediately called her parents, Hunter said. The gas station is around the corner from her parents' house, Hunter said, so their father drove to the crime scene to speak with police. According to Hunter, Camesha Johnson called their mother after she finished her bus route and said she planned to go out to dinner with her husband that night. The awkward position of Johnson's car when she was found suggests that she was trying to drive away around the time of the shooting, Hunter said. Hunter said her family doesn't know if there were any witnesses or if any other businesses caught the shooting on camera.

Houston County Sheriff Donald Valenza told reporters deputies began investigating a burglary in Columbia on July 1. "It just kept snowballing," the sheriff said of the case. The investigation led deputies to a Dothan apartment complex, where a search was conducted at a residence and a vehicle, he said. Authorities found marijuana, U.S. Treasury checks, a fraudulent Georgia driver's license and U.S. currency, Valenza said. The sheriff did not quantify how much cash was found, but said the theft and fraud investigation was the largest of his career. Deputies developed a suspect -- Dothan resident Alexandria Danielle Mock -- which led them to her husband, Colby Mock, of Blakely, Georgia. Early County, Georgia sheriff's deputies found U.S. currency taken from the July 1 burglary in Columbia in Colby Mock's house, according to Valenza. On July 14, authorities identified a third suspect -- Atlanta resident Shikeem Taj-dejaun Williams. Williams was seen in Dothan driving a Dodge Durango with Texas tags. A short foot pursuit ensued and Williams was apprehended without incident, the sheriff said. Williams allegedly gave deputies a false name and a fake ID. After taking Williams into custody, sheriff's deputies executed multiple search warrants in Houston County that turned up an unidentified amount of cash, 5 1/2 pounds of marijuana, a Glock 10mm handgun, nine fraudulent U.S. Treasury checks, two fraudulent money orders and drug paraphernalia, said Valenza. Williams was charged with second-degree burglary, first-degree theft of property, attempting to elude, second-degree possession of marijuana

Starsky Vashan King, 47, turned himself in to his parole officer in Lawrence County on Wednesday. He is being held in the Morgan County Jail on $150,000 bond. According to police, King is accused of second degree sexual abuse, adult sex offender-prohibited residence location, and adult sex offender-registration with local law enforcement. Police say investigators received a report on July 1 of sexual abuse with a juvenile occurring at a residence in the 1700 block of Robinhood Way S.W. According to police, King is a registered sex offender who registered an address in Courtland with the Lawrence County Sheriff's Office, claiming it as his residence. In a statement, Decatur police stated its SORNA Unit was familiar with King and his sex offender status due to him and his wife previously inquiring if he could live at the residence on Robinhood Way. They were both told it was not a compliant address, due to being located within 2,000 feet of multiple childcare facilities. Police say King failed to update his registration information to local law enforcement as he is required to do, per state law.

Millbrook Police Chief P.K. Johnson says 60-year-old Vickie Mullins of Deatsville has been taken into custody on 26 counts of theft of property in the 4th degree. Mullins was taken to the Elmore County Jail. Johnson says on Sunday, July 2, Millbrook police were called to Walmart after getting reports of multiple thefts, which were alleged to have been committed by the same person. He says on Monday, a representative from Walmart loss prevention obtained warrants in the Millbrook Municipal Court. Also on Monday, Johnson says police officers responded to Walmart with regard to a theft in progress. Upon arrival, he says Walmart loss prevention personnel identified Mullins as having committed a theft inside of the store as well as being wanted on multiple warrants, which were obtained earlier that day for thefts that had started in April. "While I wouldn't recommend that anyone commit a crime anywhere in the City of Millbrook, I'd think twice about committing any crime at Walmart. Chances are pretty good that you'll be caught on camera, eventually you'll be identified, apprehended and placed under arrest for your alleged offense. It's difficult to defend yourself when the act is recorded by surveillance cameras," Johnson said. He says theft of property 4th degree is a Class A Misdemeanor. Those found guilty may be sentenced up to one year in jail as well as subject to fines up to $6,000.

Mobile police charged 19-year-old Alvin Cartius Pate with first-degree robbery, second-degree assault, third-degree robbery and first-degree criminal mischief. They took him into custody on Monday. In the first robbery, on July 2, a customer at a local Waffle House reported someone had been assaulted and robbed him outside the restaurant. The 17-year-old victim told police he had been inside the restaurant when an unknown male approached him and said his vehicle lights were malfunctioning. When the victim walked outside, the suspect assaulted him with a knife and took his car keys, according to police. The victim made it back inside the restaurant, while the suspect ran away. The crime remained unsolved for nearly a month. That is, until Sunday, when Mobile police responded to another call, this one at a Papa John's restaurant on Cottage Hill Road. The victim told police he was leaving to deliver a pizza when a suspect approached and demanded pizza. The suspect pulled the victim out of his vehicle by force, assaulted him and, unlike the Waffle House incident nearly a month earlier, stole his vehicle, according to police. Police said Sunday's incident finally led them to Pate, who was taken into custody Monday. As of Tuesday morning, Pate remained in the Mobile Metro Jail, held without bond pending an initial court appearance scheduled for Wednesday.

1202	7/3/23		Caroline Silva	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA		Spalding County	Dobbins Mills	Shooting	Sheriff: 3 Teens Charged with Murder After Egging Spalding County Home	[7/8/2023] Three teenagers went to egg a Spalding County home Monday, but after leaving a man dead on the road, they all face charges of murder, officials said. Sydney Maughon, 18, Jeremy Munson, 18, and McKenzie Davenport, 19, were identified as the suspects and are charged with murder, battery and criminal trespass. Officials said Maughon is accused of firing the shot that killed the victim. "Because they all plotted and planned together, and traveled to the location with the intent to commit a crime that led up to the murder together, they are all culpable just as if they had each pulled the trigger themselves," Sheriff Darrell Dix said. "Together they bought that ticket; now together they can ride that ride." According to officials, the suspects went to egg a home along Dobbins Mills, where Jonathan Gilbert — also known as Tyler Lane — lived, due to an "ongoing lovers quarrel." When Gilbert saw what they were doing to his home, he came outside unarmed and confronted the three, Dix said. The suspects ran back into a vehicle. As Gilbert continued approaching, Maughon, who was a backseat passenger in the car, produced a firearm and shot Gilbert multiple times, Dix said. They then drove away, allegedly leaving Gilbert in the middle of the road. A 911 call led sheriff's deputies to respond to the area of the shooting, and there they found Gilbert shot to death. Dix said a witness provided investigators with enough information for them to connect the dots between the victim and suspects. After locating a phone number for one of the suspects, officials contacted Henry County police regarding the vehicle used in the incident. The vehicle was eventually found at a residence, and law enforcement was able to obtain search warrants for the vehicle and home. During the search, the car and the suspected gun used in the crime were retrieved

The discovery was made in the parking lot of a Walmart on Riverstone Parkway around 2 p.m., more than six hours after officers received the first reports of vehicle break-ins in three different Canton neighborhoods. Brianna Rogers and her stepson, described only as a juvenile, were unconscious, according to police. Around 8 that morning, at least 26 vehicles were entered, either by force or because they were left unlocked. Detectives said they located blood inside several of the vehicles and collected samples of it for evidence. A witness was able to tell authorities that a red vehicle left the area after he was awakened by the sound of a car alarm. A 911 call at about 2 p.m. alerted officers of a "suspicious situation" at the Walmart, where Rogers and her stepson were passed out in a red vehicle. They were detained after officers said they observed blood inside the vehicle and numerous stolen items in plain view. The stepson was in possession of a stolen firearm at the time of his arrest, police added. Canton police detectives responded to the scene and interviewed both suspects. A search warrant for the vehicle was also obtained, and police said the numerous stolen items matched those taken during the earlier break-ins. Rogers received medical attention on scene for a small cut on her hand before she was arrested and taken to the Cherokee County Jail. She is facing charges of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon and 26 counts of entering auto. Her stepson is facing charges of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony and 26 counts of entering auto. The Department of Juvenile Justice released him to his biological mother.

At about 1:20 a.m., officers said they discovered that the suspect caused significant damage when he fell through the ceiling. A bag containing several items also falls through the ceiling, according to the video. Several wires can be seen hanging, and eventually the camera shuts off at 1:11 a.m. A different camera grabs footage of the suspect trying to kick a door down just a minute later. John Threadgill is charge with first-degree sexual abuse and third-degree robbery. He was already out on bond for similar attacks, said Tuscaloosa Violent Crimes Unit Capt. Jack Kennedy. The assault happened about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on University Boulevard in Tuscaloosa. The female student was walking when, authorities say, Threadgill approached her from behind, knocked her to the ground, "touched her criminally," and forcefully ripped away portions of her inner shorts. He then fled, taking the clothing with him. UAPD police responded and took the immediate report. "The assault was captured on video and is violent," Kennedy said. TVCU took the lead on the investigation and quickly identified Threadgill as the suspect. One year ago, in July of 2022, Threadgill was arrested by the Sexual Assault Section of the Violent Crimes Unit for several counts of first-degree sexual abuse for similar acts. Threadgill was currently on bond for those charges. Following the new charges, the Tuscaloosa County District Attorney's Office filed motions and Threadgill's release on bond for his previous cases were also revoked. Kennedy said investigators determined that Threadgill had left Tuscaloosa, and was currently in the area of the Auburn University campus. Working along with the Auburn Police Department, Threadgill was located and arrested at about noon Thursday. Threadgill faces several charges with Auburn police that he received during his arrest there. When those cases are resolved, he will be taken to Tuscaloosa and held without bond.

Parkgoers at Jaycee Park called 911 at 9:13 p.m. Saturday to report that someone had been shot at the park, which is located at 701 Kicker Road. There was a large gathering of people at the park during that time, said Tuscaloosa police spokeswoman Stephanie Taylor. Many of the witnesses reported hearing multiple gunshots that sounded as if they were fired from multiple weapons. The victim said he was standing with a group of friends when he heard shots and began to run. He was hit while in the parking lot near the park restrooms. The first patrol officer on the scene provided medical assistance until Tuscaloosa Fire Rescue paramedics arrived and transported him to DCH Regional Medical Center, Taylor said. While his injuries are serious, it appears the victim will survive, Taylor said. As of Monday, Tuscaloosa police have received two reports from people who found bullet damage to vehicles that were parked in the area, but unoccupied, around the time of the shooting.

Imani Roberson, 29, had been last seen July 16 after leaving her mother's house in Conyers following dinner, Rockdale Sheriff Eric Levett previously said. Roberson then drove home with her two youngest children — a 3-year-old and a 1-month-old — while the other two, 11 and 9 years old, stayed with their grandmother, Clarine Andujar-White. The body was located Friday evening by a cadaver dog. Once the body was examined, Levett said during a press conference Saturday morning that it matched Roberson's description. Levett said "it was clear that foul play was evident in the disappearance of Imani," which then led investigators to her husband. Donell Anderson was arrested soon after Robertson's body was located and is facing charges of felony murder, malice murder, aggravated assault and possession of a firearm during the commission of a crime, officials said. The Rockdale SWAT team and Atlanta police surrounded an apartment on Metropolitan Parkway. Anderson was taken into custody after a brief standoff. Another arrest is expected, Levett said, but no other details were released on that person or their involvement.

Chief Pamela Wilson made history 3 weeks ago — when she was sworn in as the first black female police chief — in the city of Uniontown. Then during her second week on the job — there was a shooting in the city — three days in a row. Wilson says in the first shooting a man accidentally shot himself in the hand with a shotgun. “They were able to save his hand, but he lost two fingers,” said Wilson. In the second shooting — a man was shot in the leg — while he was driving down the street. “The subject did advise that he didn’t have any knowledge of who shot at him or what not.” The third shooting happened at the Meadows Apartments. Wilson says a 14 year old juvenile is now paralyzed from the waist down — after he was shot in the back. “Yes, he did advise that he didn’t know anything was going on. Just shots was fired. And we was flagged down and advised there was someone shot,” she said. The city’s 4th shooting in one week’s time — claimed the life of 19 year old Daitwon McCloud. That shooting happened at the Meadows Apartments. “He was transported by privately owned vehicle, another male subject and taken to the hospital. When I made it there, you know, that’s when they advised he was deceased,” said Wilson. The ALEA SBI — has been called in to help with the investigations.

Authorities began searching for Flynt after his cousin, who is his legal guardian, reached out to Gwinnett police July 30 and stated that he had been missing since the previous day. She also told officials that it was unusual for Flynt to leave without contacting her. The last time Flynt was seen by his cousin was July 28. They then spoke on the phone the following day before noon, when he mentioned he was going to pick up a radiator from an auto parts store and that he would return to their home in unincorporated Loganville later that day, the missing person report details. Police said Flynt was believed to have been driving his 2018 maroon GMC Canyon. His cousin said it had been recently purchased and still had a paper temporary tag. Several hours went by and Flynt did not contact his cousin, which prompted her to call and text him. Her calls went straight to voicemail and the messages did not appear to deliver. Several family members were also not able to get in contact with Flynt, who worked as a tree cutter in Cartersville. On Aug. 16, Atlanta police executed a search warrant at the Marquis at Buckhead apartments off Peachtree Road, where they found "items of evidentiary value," according to an Atlanta police report. The department was brought onto the case after Gwinnett police discovered that Flynt may have been in Atlanta. Police said the circumstances of the disappearance and the items collected were enough to determine that Flynt was killed.

Anthony Lamar Anderson Sr., who was hired by the department as a cadet in 2015, was booked into the Fulton County Jail on charges of aggravated sexual battery, aggravated sodomy, second-degree cruelty to children and violation of oath of office. No other details were provided in the warrants. The teen reported the alleged sexual assault to Gwinnett County officials that same day. Gwinnett police investigators began looking into the accusation and eventually questioned Anderson on Aug. 11, which was when the Atlanta Police Department was notified. A preliminary hearing for Shannon Renee Karr took place Tuesday before her capital murder case was sent on to a grand jury. She took them to the boy's body inside. Karr told police she had been hearing the voices of a man and a woman, and then felt the devil take her over. She heard the voices tell her to shoot Malachi so he could "go to heaven." She told Graham that she had a disagreement with Malachi, who she claims could also hear the voices. As he ran away from her, she shot him, first in the temple, then in the forehead, "so he wouldn't suffer." In the same interview, Karr called Malachi her "heart" and "the love of her life." When Graham asked if she needed a snack, he said Karr told him, "I just killed my best friend. I don't need anything."

Atmore police were called to the The Tavern sports bar just before midnight Saturday night after a report of a pedestrian struck by a vehicle. When officers arrived at the scene, they found the woman, 24-year-old Hannah Annette Martin of Atmore, with severe injuries. Officers began CPR and Martin was ultimately transported to a local hospital, where she later died from her injuries. The driver of the 2005 Chevrolet Tahoe which struck Martin, 45-year-old Kenneth Elbert Harrison of Silverhill, pulled into the parking lot of The Tavern after the accident. An unknown number of bar patrons assaulted Harrison, beaten him so severely he had to be airlifted by helicopter to a local trauma center. Atmore police Sgt. Darrell McCann said Martin had parked her vehicle across the highway from The Tavern and was crossing the roadway when she was struck by Harrison's vehicle. The impact sent her into The Tavern parking lot. Harrison then pulled his vehicle into the parking lot. McCann said investigators are reviewing surveillance footage to determine those who were involved in the assault on Harrison. ALEA, meanwhile, is investigating the crash which killed Martin.

Deangielo Marquis Hawthorne faces charges of murder, aggravated assault and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony in connection with the death of 33-year-old Mario Bates. According to a warrant for his arrest, Hawthorne was at his mother's Fruitwood Trace home Aug. 5. The woman told her son to leave the house and not get involved, but at some point the fight spilled outside, where Hawthorne was. The woman told police she saw her son approaching with a firearm and tried to take it away, but was unsuccessful. Hawthorne shot Bates multiple times and left, officers detailed in the warrant. When police arrived around 6:15 p.m., they found Bates lying in the driveway. He was rushed to Grady Memorial Hospital, where he died. Hawthorne was arrested Nov. 21. He is being held at the Fulton County Jail without bond.

Officers working security at the mall heard a few gunshots just after 7 p.m. and immediately ran toward the sound, authorities said. More officers quickly responded as mallgoers ran outside and began calling 911, fearing it was an active shooter. The argument then turned into a fight, which allegedly ended with one or both suspects firing shots at the employee and putting the public at risk, police said. On Friday, detectives released surveillance video they said showed the two suspects running through the mall. One suspect had short hair and was wearing all black with a backpack. The other had slightly longer hair and was wearing white or tan shorts with a black T-shirt. The suspects are facing charges of aggravated assault.

1460	8/5/23	9:30 PM	Lawrence Specker	AL.com	AL	Leeds		Whitfield Ave	Arson	Leeds Walmart Reopens After Fire Set in Women's Clothing Section	An Alabama Walmart reopened Sunday following an apparent arson incident that created a sizeable fire inside the store on Saturday. The Walmart at 8551 Whitfield Ave. in Leeds announced via Facebook on Sunday morning that it would be "closed until further notice." It reopened at noon, according to a company update. Though the initial post about the shutdown did not go into detail, witnesses reported that someone had apparently set a fire in the women's clothing department the evening before. A video shot by Isaac Burch and shared on social media showed a fire that seemed to be consuming a single rack of clothing. Though the view of the fire was partly obscured, an employee appeared to be using a fire extinguisher to put it out. However, a large column of smoke had risen from it. Leeds Fire Marshal Adam Courington said that three units had responded to the call, which came at about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. A single rack of clothing was involved, he said, and "by the time we got there the fire was already out." One or more employees had put it out before the building's sprinklers activated, he said. Courington said there was no structural damage to the building. But merchandise was affected by smoke damage, he said, including produce that would have to be removed. Police and fire officials were investigating jointly, he said. Some witnesses who posted about the incident on social media speculated that the fire had been set as a distraction from shoplifting activity.

Walton deputies had attempted to pull over a 2001 GMC Yukon for canceled insurance around 10:40 p.m., and the driver accelerated instead of stopping. The driver, identified as 31-year-old Charles Rice, of Covington, also had active felony warrants for arrest, officials with the state agency said. A pursuit ensued, and deputies chased him into Rockdale, where they performed a maneuver to disable the Yukon near the 4300 block of Haralson Mill Road, officials said. Rice then got out of the SUV and ran away. Deputies first used a stun gun on Rice, and he pulled a gun from his waistband and fired, the GBI said after their initial investigation. He was killed by return fire, investigators found. A female passenger in the SUV was not injured, according to the GBI. Once the state agency finishes its investigation, the case will be given to the Rockdale County District Attorney's Office for review.

A few hours later, she went to an apartment complex on Dothan's west side "and placed a newborn in a trash compactor," Benny said. Authorities recovered the load of trash the baby was in and recovered the newborn's body. Benny said Williams told police she threw the child in the compactor because "she didn't want the child." Benny called the allegations against Williams, who is facing a count of capital murder, "truly shocking." "In 27 years in law enforcement I never even heard of anything like this," he said... I never even heard of something as horrific as this. It shock the mind, it shocks the soul. I don't really know what else to say." Benny said the child's father received the same information as Williams' family — that the baby was dropped off at the hospital.

The three males, ages 14, 16 and 17, were caught when a Fairhope officer noticed one of the stolen vehicles Sunday evening. The officer initiated a traffic stop, but the occupants abandoned the vehicle and fled the scene on foot. Police have recovered one of the weapons and 10 of the vehicles, which have been returned to their owners. Fairhope police Lt. Shane Nolte said the string of auto thefts should serve as a reminder to residents to lock their vehicles. "While blame is squarely on the individuals arrested," Nolte said. "Keys left in unlocked vehicles, certainly created greater opportunity. We cannot stress enough to residents about properly securing their vehicles and homes." The thefts occurred in nine different neighborhoods in Fairhope. Thus far, two of the teenagers have been charged with receiving stolen property, while the third is charged with 1st-degree theft. Police said additional charges are pending.

Police described a series of incidents, including a Thursday evening shooting in a suburban Wilmington neighborhood, a chaotic scene early Friday afternoon where a woman was kidnapped and assaulted before running onto Wrightsville Beach, and a shootout on Market Street where four deputies exchanged gunfire with the man, killing him. "We are confident that these seemingly unrelated incidents are actually work of this one individual," Ben David, New Hanover County's district attorney, said during a press conference. Officials later identified the suspect as William Brent Gilmore, 35, of Wilmington. According to Gilmore's Facebook page, he is a tattoo artist. The series of incidents began Thursday evening when police were alerted to a shooting off Wrightsville Avenue in Wilmington and then another a short time later on Lake Avenue, about 1.5 miles away, said Wilmington Police Department Chief Donny Williams. In the second shooting, a 54-year-old woman was hit several times but survived, Williams said. Then at about 12:35 p.m. Friday, Wrightsville Beach police received calls for what Chief David Squires described as a "confusing" situation on Scotch Bonnet Lane, just north of the Holiday Inn. A cleaning lady had been called to a home there to let in an exterminator, Squires said. She brought her children and one of their friends along to enjoy some time at the beach. The exterminator wasn't there when they arrived, Squires said, but another car was. "She was surprised to find a black sedan with no license plate in the driveway," he said. "However, she did not see this as suspicious. She thought at the worst it might be somebody getting some free parking"

Marcus Turner faces three counts of felony child molestation and one count of felony child molestation, the warrants revealed. According to Worship with Wonders Church in Marietta, Turner served as the director of operations for the church -- a position that ended in December 2021. He does not currently hold any position within the church, they said. Warrants allege that Turner drove the boy to both Kennesaw State University's campus and Frozen Cow Creamery on Aug. 19, where he kissed him in two separate incidents. Two days later, Turner is accused in the warrants of driving the boy to a shopping center off Cumberland Parkway in Atlanta, where he sodomized him and performed acts of oral sex. The church made a statement regarding Turner's arrest on Saturday, saying they called law enforcement to report the suspected abuse based on what they had heard. "We have never tolerated (and will never tolerate, cover, or condone) any sexually immoral action between an adult and a minor who attends our church," pastors Myles and Delana Rutherford said in a statement posted to the church's Facebook page. The church also stated that Turner was not responsible for the care of any minors during his time employed there and that they did not arrange any relationship with any minor who attended the church. "We only became aware of this situation when it was brought to our attention, and we took immediate action," church leaders said in a statement. "We are not aware of Marcus Turner having inappropriate involvement with any other minors."

1556	8/19/23	3:15 PM	Carol Robinson	AL.com	AL	Birmingham		Bessemer Rd	Shooting	Man Shot Multiple Times in West Birmingham While in Car with Baby, Child's Grandmother	Someone unleashed a barrage of a gunfire on a sedan outside a Birmingham Family Dollar Friday afternoon, sending a 22-year-old man with multiple gunshot wounds to the hospital. The drive-by shooting happened around 3:15 p.m. Friday at 2224 Bessemer Road. Police say it was a targeted attack. The call to police went out as three people shot, including a child. However, police said the victim -- in a car with a 6-month-old girl and the child's grandmother at the time of the shooting -- was the only person shot. The Chrysler 300 was parked in the handicap slot outside of the Family Dollar, which is next to the Food Giant in Five Points West. Investigators marked more than 51 shell casings in the parking lot. The Chrysler appeared to be the only vehicle struck. The victim was in the back seat when he was shot. He was taken to UAB Hospital in critical condition. The child was not injured but had blood on her, which led the first officers on the scene to believe she may have been injured. The girl's grandmother sustained a graze wound and was hit by shattered glass but refused to go to the hospital. She was up and walking around with no visible injuries. The suspect fled in a vehicle. Birmingham officers bought diapers and other supplies for the baby, and kept her in an air-conditioned police car until her mother arrived at the scene and took her home. No arrests have been made. Investigators hope there will be plenty of surveillance footage since the shooting happened in the middle of a busy business district.

"Our officer took action to protect the lives of the men being shot at," he said. No one was injured in the initial shooting or the subsequent shooting by police. While the State Bureau of Investigation is often called in to investigate officer-involved shootings, Fitzgerald said that typically does not happen when no one is injured. Police cordoned off a couple of blocks in every direction surrounding the crime scene. The was a large police presence including Internal Affairs Investigators and Assistant Chief La' Quaylin Parhm Mack. "We're following our protocol when an officer has discharged a firearm," Fitzgerald said. Tuesday's shooting was an isolated occurrence, Huntsville police spokesperson Sydney Martin said. Both people had minor injuries, police said. Police do not think anyone else was involved. "This was not an active shooter incident," Martin wrote in the emailed statement. Martin said that investigators were obtaining arrest warrants on assault charges for both people involved. Both will be booked into the county jail when they are released from the hospital, Martin said. The north Alabama campus was briefly placed on a lockdown, according to local news outlets. WAFF reported that students were sent an alert warning that there was a report of an armed person on campus and to go inside and lock their doors. The university posted an announcement about a "developing public safety emergency near the Knight Center" residence hall and asked students to stay away from the area. The school later posted a notice that the situation was all clear. Alabama A&M University has an enrollment of about 6,100 students.

On Aug. 26, Mitchel Dang's family said she told them she was meeting up with friends at Alley Cat Atlanta on Courtland Street. On that Saturday night, Victor Calderone, a legendary NYC DJ and Grammy-winning producer was booked along with international performing artist Giammarco Orsini. After she didn't return home late Saturday night, her family started getting worried. However, at first, they didn't suspect the worst and wanted to give Mitchel some space. While she did live at home with her two sisters and parents, she was still 25 years old. It wouldn't be until the beginning of the week – when her family couldn't reach her and Mitchel didn't return home they contacted Atlanta Police. On Wednesday, Aug. 30, four days after vanishing, officers were dispatched to a "person down" call at 75 Martin Luther King Dr., which is across the street from the Fulton County Justice Center Building in downtown. This is about two miles from Alley Cat where Mitchel was last known to be the Saturday prior. It would turn out, that the "person down" inside the parking garage would in fact be Mitchel Dang. While APD has been tight-lipped on the investigation, her family said the detective told them it was a stranger on stranger crime. The family also said the garage where Mitchel's body was found was not where her car was parked. On Friday, Sept. 22, three weeks after Mitchel's body was found, APD announced the arrest of 24-year-old Ja' Keivious Arnold. He was arrested with the help of Chamblee Police inside the DeKalb County Animal Services building on Chamblee Dunwoody Road. The person they believe is behind the gunfire has turned himself in. Authorities responded at 5:45 p.m. on Sept. 5 to the HomeTowne Studios by Red Roof Inn at 7049 Jimmy Carter Blvd. When officers arrived, Gwinnett County Police said they found a 28-year-old man shot to death in the breezeway of the hotel— outside of a room on the first floor. The next day, detectives identified the man as Dareese Ellis from Peachtree Corners. “It’s believed that there was some kind of altercation that took place between the two males involved and it’s possible that somehow they knew each other or had some prior knowledge of each other,” Gwinnett Police Corporal Ryan Winderweedle said. A perimeter was quickly set up by police and several K-9 units were dispatched to help in tracking the suspect. Officers were seen set up on Holcomb Bridge Road, Peachtree Industrial Boulevard and Peachtree Corners Circle. However, the suspect ran away. Authorities were searching for Jay Dante Crump. Police believe the 21-year-old shot and killed Ellis. Both men were staying at the hotel when the shooting happened, according to police. In an update, police said Crump turned himself in on Sept. 10. Crump is accused of aggravated assault, felony murder, and possession of a firearm during a felony.

1603	9/6/23	1:30 AM	George McDonald	WAKA 8	AL		Dallas County	Moody Cir	Shooting	Dallas Co. Woman and 5 Year Old Son Hurt in Drive-by Shooting	Authorities in Dallas County are investigating a drive-by shooting that left a mother and her five year child hurt. Sheriff Mike Granthum says suspects have been identified in the case — and investigators are in the process of obtaining warrants. “They were just spraying bullets. They didn’t care, they had no respect for human life whatsoever.” Deputies responded to a shots fired call on the 800 block of Moody Circle at around 1:30 Wednesday morning. They found a house and a car — that were riddled with bullet holes when they arrived. A mother, her 15 year old daughter and her 5 year son were all inside the house asleep when someone drove-by — and opened fire on their home. “We’re looking at attempted murder, not only Shooting-into-an-Occupied-Dwelling which is actually a felony. But we’re looking at attempted murder, Granthum said. “Any time you pull a trigger and you shoot a house up that many times, you have one intention. And that’s to kill.” The woman and her 5 year old were injured in the incident. They were taken to the Vaughan E-R where they were both treated and then released. Granthum says the shooting may be connected to the shooting death of a 23 year old woman in Selma from earlier this week. “We do have some video, we have recovered a vehicle from the scene. And we’re in the process of gathering warrants on some people now and we’re going to bring these people to justice.

"She begins to tell me that what she just witnessed inside the office with Mrs. Vivian and my son was horrible," Gibson said. SLED announced the arrest in a statement Tuesday. While the warrant provides few details, it states that Jesse Brassell, 23, admitted on Sept. 20 that he intentionally bit the child's cheek in Cottageville, South Carolina. In a statement, SLED said the Colleton County Sheriff's Office asked it to investigate the incident. The child suffered a bite mark on the right cheek, according to the warrant. Terrance Trent Darby, a 34-year-old Anderson resident, was charged with multiple crimes in Union County, including attempted murder. Darby was also charged with reckless driving, failure to stop for blue light, disregarding a traffic control device, and endangerment of a highway worker. The Sept. 14 incident began in Spartanburg County, where Darby stole an ambulance from Spartanburg Medical Center's Mary Black hospital campus. The Spartanburg County Sheriff's Office said that Darby was a patient at the hospital who drove away in the empty but running ambulance that was parked outside of the hospital's emergency room, WSPA reported. Before the chase entered Union County, the ambulance hit a Spartanburg Police Department patrol vehicle, according to WSPA. Union County deputies took command of the pursuit when it entered the county on U.S. 176 and they deployed stop sticks before the ambulance reached the city limits, but that failed to stop the stolen vehicle. The stolen ambulance continued into the city where stop sticks were used again and hit the vehicle's tires. The ambulance began to slow down before stopping in the parking lot of an old school on Sims Drive. Darby was taken into custody without incident. The attempted murder charge stems from Darby driving toward a sheriff's office captain who was setting up stop sticks. Bond was denied on all of the charges, and Darby is locked up at the Union County Detention Center, jail records show. Darby is also being held for the Spartanburg County Sheriff's Office , according to jail records, but information on that charge was not available

Michael Brooks II, 28, remains in police custody while in the hospital for injuries received during the break-in, the sheriff's office said. He is facing charges of home invasion, burglary and theft by taking in the Fayette incident, and a charge of murder out of Ohio. Deputies were called to the Fayette home Thursday regarding an active alarm and potential intruder. Officials said the homeowner was forced to fire a gun "to defend his family," which resulted in injuries to the suspect. Brooks is believed to have acted alone. Though the sheriff's office said the invasion was an isolated incident, officials said it was discovered that Brooks approached multiple homes in the area before targeting the victim's residence. A Ford truck located at the home is believed to have been used by Brooks. The vehicle was reported stolen out of Kettering, Ohio, and displayed a different state's license plate, the sheriff's office noted. After Brooks was tied to the incident, deputies found out he had an extensive criminal history and was wanted in the death of Emily Foster in Columbus, Ohio. "He does have a criminal history that spans Columbus police, some of the area suburbs, Franklin County, some agencies and cities up and down 75, all the way from Detroit obviously now down to Georgia and some communities in between," Columbus police Deputy Chief Smith Weir said during a news conference Friday. 1697	9/22/23		Alexis Stevens	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA	Smyrna		Pine St	Animal Cruelty	Cops: Man Arrested After Doorbell Camera Catches Him Throwing Dog at Ceiling	[9/26/2023] A Cobb County man is accused of throwing his girlfriend's small dog against the ceiling in the hallway of an apartment complex, according to investigators. But a doorbell camera captured the alleged violence against the animal, and that video was shared with investigators with Cobb County Animal Services. The man believed responsible, James Moses, was charged with aggravated cruelty to animals and surrendered Tuesday, jail records showed. Stephen Hammond, director of animal services, said video of the abuse was shared on social media and a concerned citizen alerted him Friday. An investigator worked through the weekend to identify the suspect. "There is evil in the world, and this proves it," Hammond told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. "There's no excuse for it. The dog wasn't trying to bite him. The dog didn't do anything wrong." The AJC is not posting the video due to its graphic nature. Hammond said it appeared Moses took his anger out on the small dog, a 4-year-old Jack Russell terrier named Smokey. Animal services executed search warrants at the Smyrna complex on Pine Street where the alleged abuse took place and seized the dog, who was examined by a veterinarian. Fortunately, the terrier has no permanent damage, Hammond said. His owner found out about the abuse from investigators and the two have been reunited, he said. An arrest warrant was secured for Moses on Monday. "Said accused did throw the dog into the wall at a high rate of speed," the warrant states. "The dog made a loud thud when it struck the ground." Moses surrendered Tuesday afternoon and was booked into the Cobb jail, where his bond was set at $7,500, jail records showed. Hammond said he is grateful that his office was alerted to the video and urged others to speak up if they witness similar crimes

Amar Touré, 45, was booked into the jail, which is directly behind the sheriff's office, and is facing charges of aggravated assault on a peace officer, possession of a weapon during the commission of a felony and theft by receiving stolen property. No one was injured during Friday's incident, the GBI stated. The Calhoun man entered the jail lobby located off U.S. 41 around 4 a.m. and asked a jailer if the sheriff's office was open. The officer told Touré that the office was closed, so he returned to the parking lot. While in the parking lot, Touré took out a black handgun from his jacket and opened fire on a deputy sitting in a parked patrol vehicle near the south end of the sheriff's office building, the GBI said. To escape the gunfire, the deputy quickly maneuvered his patrol vehicle behind other parked vehicles while Touré continued to fire, authorities said. As the suspect got closer, the deputy was forced to move again to escape the bullets. Soon after, another deputy, who heard the gunfire and radio calls for help, exited the jail's sallyport with a rifle in hand, the state agency said. The deputy fired once at Touré, who raised his hands and surrendered, according to the GBI. Surveillance footage appeared to show Touré walking around the parking lot, authorities said. The GBI said it will conduct an independent investigation into the incident before handing over the case to the Gordon District Attorney's Office for review. According to authorities, Touré has a lengthy record that includes a January 2020 arrest for aggravated assault and cruelty to children, and prior arrests in 2019 and 2018. He remains in the county jail, officials said.

Case in point — in Gwinnett County, a week ago. Authorities said it was a potentially fatal attack at the Home Depot on Jimmy Carter Boulevard in the Norcross area on Sept. 23. The Gwinnett County Police Department said that around 1 p.m. on Saturday, four shoplifters not only ran off with hundreds of dollars worth of power tools, but they also attacked a 66-year-old employee — knocking him over and inflicting a severe head injury. And that’s in line with a frightening trend. Gwinnett County Police released photos Thursday of the four people they are trying to find— two men and two teens—a boy and a girl. Police Corporal Ryan Winderweedle said Thursday that they all got away in a dark grey Chrysler 300. “It appeared to be a coordinated effort amongst these individuals,” Winderweedle said. “And during the process, when an employee attempted to intervene or stop them, they assaulted that employee and caused an injury that resulted in them being sent to the hospital for a couple days.” Shoplifters across the country have become more violent just in the past year as they grab and run, according to a report from the National Retail Federation. The Retail Industry Leaders Association has been compiling videos of the attacks, documenting case after case of shoplifters assaulting anyone in their way. Within the past year in metro Atlanta, police reported that shoplifters actually set fire to three big box stores — two Walmarts and a Target — to distract store security officers from catching them stealing merchandise. Four suspects have been charged in connection with Logan's death, including 33-year-old Latorrie Gaddis, who was captured by the U.S. Marshals Service's Gulf Coast Regional Fugitive Task Force in Alexander City. Gaddis, who was already being sought by Huntsville police on two unrelated second-degree assault warrants, is facing capital murder and kidnapping charges for Ja' Marious' death, said Sgt. Jack Pugh. Latoya Wells, 37, and Corie Wilson, 33, are charged with kidnapping in connection with their alleged involvement in Logan's disappearance. Gaddis' wife, 34-year-old Deserea Pilar Cunningham was taken into custody Friday afternoon by authorities in Sylacauga. She was booked in the Talladega County Jail on a charge of hindering prosecution. Cunningham will be extradited to Huntsville and booked into the Madison County Jail on the charge at a later date, said police spokeswoman Sydney Martin. Dental and DNA records are also being gathered to positively identify the body, Pugh said, but police believe it is Ja' Marious. The teen's cause of death is still being determined but police are considering his death a homicide. One of Ja' Marious' family members contacted Huntsville police on Sept. 27 to report him missing, police said. The investigation revealed the teen was last seen in the late hours of Sept. 25. Khalil Hamilton, 26, is accused of renting a basement room at a home along Seed Way in Buford and then threatening the homeowner with a gun, zip-tying him and stealing his wallet, Gwinnett police said. He is wanted on charges of armed robbery, aggravated assault, false imprisonment and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony. According to a police report, the home had been listed on Airbnb. While the company did not return multiple requests for confirmation, a home matching the description had been listed on that street. The listing has since been deleted. On Sept. 26, Hamilton texted the victim shortly before 11 p.m. asking for help with a leaky toilet, the report states. The victim went to assess the issue and was looking at the toilet when he turned around and saw Hamilton pointing a firearm and a stun gun at him, investigators note in the report. Police said Hamilton then made the victim get on the ground and zip-tied his legs together and his hands behind his back before demanding his wallet. The victim “told (Hamilton), ‘You can take whatever you want, just don’t hurt me and my family,’ ” investigators detailed in the report. The victim’s son and mother were home at the time but did not witness the incident. In hopes of protecting his family, the victim told Hamilton where to find his wallet, investigators said. A few moments later, Hamilton returned with a backpack and then sped away in a car. The victim told police that, after “twisting and turning his wrist,” he was able to free one hand and call police. Hamilton has ties to Texas and Philadelphia and is considered armed and dangerous, officials said. He was last seen driving an older model Honda sedan with Texas tag

The attack happened Sept. 29 at 1153 Chapin Road, police said Wednesday in a news release. That's a Sonic Drive-In, which is in a part of Chapin densely packed with restaurants, and isn't far from Exit 91 on Interstate 26. There was no information indicating the attack occurred inside the Sonic. At about 2:30 a.m. on Sept. 29, officers responded to the 800 block of Old Lexington Highway after getting a report about a victim of an assault in need of medical aid. That's about 3 miles from where police said the attack happened. Officers determined the victim was with Bryant Hunter Sanders and Jared Hunter Peake at 1153 Chapin Road, following a previous argument. The victim believed that the argument had been settled when he was attacked. Police said that Sanders and Peake planned to assault the victim — and hit him in the head multiple times with a handgun, while also landing multiple blows to his arms and body. The victim suffered multiple injuries to his face, head, arms and body, and was bleeding profusely after the assault. He was taken to Lexington Medical Center with what police called non-life-threatening injuries. Investigators determined Sanders was involved in the attack, and with help from the Newberry Police Department, he was taken into custody at his Newberry home, police said. The 24-year-old was arrested in September, when he was charged with assault and battery of a high and aggravated nature and criminal conspiracy, Lexington County court records show. His bond was set at $80,000 on the combined charges, and was posted in September, according to court records. Police said their investigation led them also to identify Peake as an Sheriff's deputies responded about 3:30 a.m. Friday to a residence in the 11000 block of Greymont Boulevard in Moundville. The residence was occupied by the female homeowner, her boyfriend and two children under the age of 12, said Tuscaloosa Violent Crimes Unit Capt. Jack Kennedy. Investigators determined the woman's ex-boyfriend, 29-year-old Nicholas Lynch, had forced his way into the home and assaulted those inside. The male victim was stabbed several times. His wounds aren't life-threatening. Kennedy said both children also were assaulted and sustained minor injuries. The two adult victims fled the home, without the children. Once on the scene, deputies found both children hiding in different parts of the home. Lynch had already left the scene. The family's dog was found slain. Authorities found Lynch's vehicle a short distance away. Kennedy said he apparently parked his vehicle there and then walked the rest of the way to his ex-girlfriend's home. A perimeter was established. Authorities used tracking dogs and a drone to search for Lynch. The drone located Lynch hiding in a wooded area. He was taken into custody by deputies and investigators. Lynch is charged with first-degree burglary, attempted murder, aggravated animal cruelty and two counts of third-degree assault. He is being held in the Tuscaloosa County Jail.

Doneish's a Speight called 911 on Oct. 1 to report that her daughter, Angel, was unresponsive inside the apartment at 2500 Center Street in northwest Atlanta. The child was taken to a hospital, where she was pronounced dead at 2:33 p.m. Hospital staff said they were unable to get Angel's temperature because her body was too cold, an indication she had been dead for an extended period of time. "Additionally, (they) noticed bruising around the neck of Angel which Doneish's a claimed was from Angel touching her own neck," the warrant added. Speight told police that she and Angel had been alone outside of a brief visit by the child's father the evening of Sept. 30 and his aunt earlier on Oct. 1. She said Angel was acting normal throughout the day, but she noticed the child wasn't breathing normally around noon. An autopsy performed two days later by the Fulton County Medical Examiner's Office determined Angel had bruising on her neck, top of her skull and both cheeks, along with a subdural hemorrhage and swelling of the brain and hemorrhage on her left optical nerve. Police said the injuries were consistent with blunt force trauma. After prosecutors explained those injuries and findings to Speight, police said she denied purposely harming her daughter. The mother then grabbed a stuffed animal and demonstrated what she said happened: that she was cleaning her child's room and accidentally caused Angel to hit her head on her crib's railing. Speight told police the incident happened while she was arguing on the phone with the father of one of her other children. 1771	10/2/23		Henri Hollis	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA	Brookhaven			Auto Theft	Suspected Car Burglary Crew Arrested After Chase, Crash in Brookhaven	Two men suspected of multiple car break-ins and thefts around metro Atlanta were arrested in Brookhaven on Monday afternoon after they crashed while attempting to flee from police, authorities said. Police believe the suspects were casing a residential neighborhood, department spokesman Sgt. Samuel Jones told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Brookhaven officers were informed by another law enforcement agency that the two men had entered their jurisdiction. Officers began canvassing the area and spotted the suspects' car, Jones said. They drove away immediately upon seeing police, speeding into a neighborhood and crashing. Both ran away from the wreck, but one was quickly arrested. The second man was able to hide for a short time, but police formed a perimeter and located him using a drone and a K-9 officer, according to Jones. After being found, the man ran away a second time before he was finally taken into custody. Both men have multiple charges pending and will be booked into the DeKalb County Jail, Jones said. Car break-ins are relatively common crimes that are often serial; many similar break-ins will be committed by the same person or group.

Terrell Dawaijah Lytes, a 32-year-old Lexington resident, was charged with first-degree burglary and first-degree criminal sexual conduct. Bond was denied on the burglary charge, and Lytes remains behind bars in the Lexington County Detention Center. The break-in happened early Monday morning at a David Lane home in the Red Bank area. "Based on information detectives have gathered during their investigation, Lytes entered a house ... through a bedroom window," Lexington County Sheriff Jay Koon said in the release. The woman's husband tackled the intruder before Lytes ran out of the house. "Deputies eventually located Lytes near the home and matched him to the identification card found inside a backpack Lytes left in the bedroom," Koon said. "Lytes was taken into custody and transported to the Lexington County Detention Center." Lytes, who is listed as a David Lane resident, has been arrested on more than 20 charges in Lexington County since 2009, court records show. That includes a May 2021 arrest on a grand larceny charge that Lytes ultimately pleaded guilty to, and he was sentenced to 40 months in prison. If convicted on the new first-degree burglary charge, Lytes faces a maximum sentence of life in prison, and no less than 15 years behind bars. A conviction on the new felony criminal sexual conduct charge would mean a maximum punishment of 30 years in prison. The investigation began about 2:20 p.m. Wednesday when the Pike County Sheriff's Office received a 911 call from the Monticello community from a man who said he found his missing 17-year-old son dead on the family's property. Sheriff Russell Thomas said the boy's father told authorities his son had been missing since Monday, but that he had not reported it to law enforcement. The father said he got home about 7:30 p.m. Monday and asked where the 17-year-old was, but nobody had an answer. On Tuesday, he told them, he was called to pick up his 14-year-old son from school because the teen was upset that his older brother was missing, the sheriff said. Once father and son returned home, they began to search the property for the 17-year-old. The father then found his dead son's body on the back side of the family's property and called 911. Thomas said sheriff's investigators learned that the 14-year-old confided in a friend at school, telling him he had killed his brother. "He then asked his friend to help him murder the rest of the family and help him bury their bodies," Thomas said. "The friend also stated the 14-year-old had a hit list in his book bag of family members he wanted to kill, and made statements about wanting to shoot up the school," the sheriff said. A search of the book bag turned up a hit-list of family members. Thomas said when he interviewed the 14-year-old, the teen confessed he shot his 17-year-old brother while he sat on the couch. "He stated his brother got up and staggered out of the residence and out the back door, where he then fell at the bottom of the steps," the Mike Frinter said his landscaping crew was in Chamblee working on a yard when the crew noticed a backpack blower was missing at some point. A closer look at their landscaping trailer, the crew noticed a 'cut lock' on the ground next to it. "This is the second leaf blower I've had stolen," Frinter said, "after the first one, I got the AirTag." Frinter immediately opened his Find My app to track the tag and then called to notify the Chamblee Police Department. During the day, Chamblee Police Captain Jason Waasdrop said his team was able to tie the vehicle to a theft of another backpack blower in Forsyth County. The team tracked the suspects to an area in Dekalb County, where they said they witnessed thieves casing out another landscaping crew's trailer on Hidden Acres Drive. The officers waited for them to leave and stopped to tell the crew to lock up their equipment and stay vigilant. In the meantime, the officers were trying to get some marked patrol units in the area to help them conduct a traffic stop, but by the time any units were close enough, the suspects were gone. A little while later, the crime suppression officers from Chamblee Police got an updated location from the AirTag in Tucker. [after a series events leading to a brief chase, both men were arrested without incident.] Back at the car, officers said they found Frinter's backpack blower inside, a second backpack blower in the trunk and a pair of bolt cutters.

1803	10/6/23	1:00 AM	Carol Robinson	AL.com	AL	Birmingham		Second Ave N	Shooting	2 Killed, 1 Wounded in Shooting Outside Nightclub: 'Going Out in Birmingham Shouldn't Be A Death Sentence,' Police Say	Gunfire erupted in a Birmingham parking lot early Friday, leaving two men dead and a woman with life-threatening injuries. The shooting happened where a large crowd was gathered in parking lots and around food trucks parked outside Platinum nightclub. The Jefferson County Coroner's Office identified the victims as Jjuan James Cole, 22, and Dyron Malik Mays-Perry, 27. Cole lived in Birmingham, and Mays-Perry lived in Midfield. Just after 1 a.m., a North Precinct officer was in the area of the 800 block of Second Avenue North when the officer heard shots fired. Shot Spotter, the city's gunfire detection system, also indicated multiple rounds fired, said Officer Truman Fitzgerald. The officer was flagged down by people who told him someone was shot in the parking lot of Washer and Refrigeration Supply Company. That is when he saw a man unresponsive in the parking lot. More people told the officer there was another person shot, and the officer found an adult female who had sustained gunshot wounds. She was still alive and taken to UAB Hospital with life-threatening injuries. The third victim, an adult male, was also found in the parking lot. He, too, was unresponsive. Birmingham Fire and Rescue Service pronounced both men dead on the scene at 1:30 a.m. Fitzgerald said it appears the shots were all fired in that parking lot. Multiple shell cases were found near the victims. He said he didn't know the exact number of shots fired, but said the total was in the double digits. Multiple vehicles were hit by the gunfire, as was Washer and Refrigeration Supply Company. Nearly two hours after the deadly shootings, there were still 70 to 100 people out in the area. Fitzgerald said there were probably more when the shooting actually happened. "We need those people to come forward and give us information," he said.

Alan Paul Heinze, 53, was arrested after the chaos and is facing several charges, including aggravated assault and arson, according to the GBI and Habersham County Sheriff's Office. The sheriff's office was called that morning to a vehicle fire on Sutton Road in Demorest, where they found a truck engulfed in flames at a shop, according to Channel 2 Action News. Just before 9 p.m., Jefferson County sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the Goudy venue on Gary Avenue on a report of an active shooter. It was also reported that one person had been wounded, said Lt. Joni Money. Deputies, along with law enforcement officers from surrounding agencies, flocked to the scene. Money said deputies determined that the initial reports of the circumstances surrounding the shooting were incorrect. The investigation showed a fight occurred inside the business earlier but was dispersed. Later, there were shots fired into the air outside the facility. Deputies searched area but did not find anyone wounded. They also check with hospitals to make sure no one had showed up with a gunshot wound from the Gary Avenue incident. Money said was also determined that there was no visible property damage from the shots. An event called After Party was being held at Goudy from 7:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. Social media posts indicated the gathering could have been for youth. Money said sheriff's officials are thankful for the response from other agencies on what was initially thought to be a possible large-scale event. "We are relieved that this did not turn out to be the case in this instance," she said. "Even though no one was injured, it could have easily been a different circumstance." "Firing a gun inside of most city limits is illegal and at the very least, it is reckless and irresponsible," Money said. "We are lucky no one was injured in this case."

Deputies arrested 29-year-old Dashawn Norwood on multiple charges after he leaped from the apartment building. Norwood, who was charged with first-degree domestic violence and carry concealed weapon, is being held at the Alvin S. Glenn Detention Center. At about 2 p.m. Tuesday, deputies responded to an apartment building in the 3500 block of Lake Avenue on a call about a domestic violence with a weapon incident. When deputies arrived they heard arguing in the apartment, and saw a gun in a vehicle with an open door in addition to fresh blood on the ground in front of the apartment door. Commands to open the door were met with silence. Because the original caller said a gun was pointed at the victim's head, deputies on the scene decided the circumstances justified the decision to force their way inside the apartment, where the victim was found and removed. When questioned, the victim told deputies Norwood was still inside the apartment, in the upstairs area. After trying to contact Norwood, deputies called for additional help because of the barricade situation, and a special response team was part of the law enforcement officers that responded. Norwood eventually jumped from a window on the second floor and was taken into custody. He was booked into the Richland County jail Tuesday, records show. No other injuries were reported.

The chase ended just off I-75 and Highway 411, where authorities said they are looking for an armed and extremely dangerous man. A source said the man is wanted for domestic violence and kidnapping charges in Floyd County. The Bartow County Sheriff's Office K-9 bit the suspect, who shot the canine deputy multiple times. According to the source, the K-9 deputy was expected to survive, but the suspect fled a heavily wooded area. According to the Mobile Police Department, officers conducted a traffic stop at the intersection of Dauphin Island Parkway and Halls Mill Road about 5:41 p.m. last Thursday. The fire ravaged Naomi's Tomatoes Inc., which has sold a variety of produce and dry goods at the farmers market in Forest Park for more than 20 years, according to owner Naomi Santiago. She told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution she had no idea why arsonists would target her business. "We get along very well with all the other vendors here, and we have a lot of loyal customers," Santiago said. "To our knowledge, we don't have anyone that is angry with us for any reason, personal or business." The State Fire Marshal's Office opened an investigation into the incident and shared photos and video of the suspected arsonists, Georgia Insurance and Fire Safety Commissioner John F. Three masked people get out of the truck and climb the fence to get inside the market, then make their way to Naomi's Tomatoes. They can be seen carrying red gas cans and dousing them around the produce stand. One suspect then lights something on fire and tosses it on the floor, causing an immediate conflagration. "Two of the individuals were bringing in two gas containers each, and the lead guy seemed to be the person telling them where to go," Santiago said. By Wednesday morning, Naomi's Tomatoes had been mostly cleared of debris, leaving the farm stand a burned-out shell. Santiago said the business had lost thousands of dollars worth of inventory. Leonard Allen Cure, 53, was killed after he was pulled over around 7:30 a.m. in a rural area north of Kingsland, about nine miles from the Florida border, according to the GBI. The Camden County deputy was not injured during the incident. A GBI spokeswoman said the state agency had opened an investigation into the shooting at the request of the sheriff's office. He cooperated throughout the stop until he learned he was going to be placed under arrest. The GBI did not say why the deputy decided to arrest Cure. Once the man stopped complying, the deputy used his Taser, the GBI said. Cure then assaulted the deputy, and the deputy used his Taser again, then hit Cure with his baton, according to the state agency. Cure still would not comply, so the deputy shot him, according to the GBI. Emergency medical personnel responded and treated Cure, but he later died of his wounds, the GBI said. The Camden sheriff's office acknowledged the shooting and said the GBI was leading the investigation. This was the 80th shooting involving a law enforcement officer in Georgia this year, according to the GBI.

The now-deleted video shows multiple people kicking the teen in the face, beating him until he bleeds and urinates on himself, calling him racial slurs, and leaving him in a closet. Hampton Police are looking for William Kyle Latham, 18, also known as "KY." There's a warrant out for his arrest. He's facing kidnapping and false imprisonment charges. DeKalb County Police are also assisting in the investigation. Hampton Police released a statement late Saturday saying the 16-year-old was kidnapped Tuesday from the Bedrock community in Henry County. He was driven to DeKalb County where he was beaten and robbed, police said. They called it an isolated incident. Since the video includes a minor and a ton of profanity, we have chosen to blur the video due to its content. In it, the teen is instructed to take off everything but his underwear. A voice accuses him of snitching about a shooting. The beating ensues. Latham puts a gun in the teen's mouth and threatens to shoot him in his privates. He's then pistol-whipped. The teen appears to urinate on himself. He's given demands to repeat whatever the suspect, who appears to be Latham, says. He's lastly told to stay in the closet while the thieves steal his clothes and leave him there alive.

Base authorities took the Marine into custody about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday after an incident that occurred in a barracks room on the North Carolina base earlier in the evening, a statement from the base said. The statement called the death a homicide and described the other Marine as a suspect but didn't provide any other details, including how the Marine died. The sprawling Camp Lejeune covers about 240 square miles (621 square kilometers) and is home to the II Marine Expeditionary Force. Its beaches and ranges provide training in amphibious assaults and urban warfare and it is used both for U.S. Marine training and for exercises involving other military forces from around the world. The death came two days before the base was scheduled to conduct annual training known as Exercise Urgent Response that "provides an opportunity for tenant commands to develop and exercise emergency security procedures," according to a press release. It's likely that the Navy's internal law enforcement agency will investigate the death rather than local authorities. The Naval Criminal Investigative Service, or NCIS, investigates any alleged crimes within the Navy, and has jurisdiction on Navy bases.

1914	10/23/23		Chelsea Prince	The Atlanta Journal-Constitution	GA		Peach County	Ga. 49	Shooting	GBI to Charge Gainesville Man Wounded in Middle Georgia Police Shooting	State investigators will seek charges of drug possession, fleeing and obstruction against a Gainesville man shot by a police officer in Middle Georgia on Monday. Kory Karpich, 37, was taken to a medical center in Macon and is expected to recover, according to the GBI. Once he's released from the hospital, Karpich will also face a charge of theft by receiving stolen property after investigators said he crashed in a stolen vehicle. Byron police were searching for the vehicle Monday when they encountered Karpich outside a McDonald's on Ga. 49 in Peach County, located just south of Macon. An officer spotted the unoccupied silver Volkswagen Atlas, which was reported stolen out of the Atlanta area, in the restaurant's parking lot. The officer was attempting to find the vehicle's driver when Karpich walked out of the McDonald's and climbed behind the wheel, GBI agent Jerry Jones said in a statement. He was ordered to get out of the vehicle. "After Karpich failed to follow instructions, the officer broke a window to enter the car," Jones said. "Karpich continued to ignore the officer's commands. The officer used his Taser; however, the Taser was ineffective." Karpich tried to drive away but ended up hitting the side of the building and the officer's patrol car, which was parked directly behind the Atlas. The officer fired multiple rounds into the moving vehicle, he said, hitting Karpich. Other Byron police officers gave chase, and the pursuit eventually ended with a crash in Bibb County, several miles to the north. Karpich was then taken into custody without further incident, the GBI said. His drug charges were related to possession of methamphetamine and drug-related objects.

MARTA police are investigating the gunfire, which erupted around 1:20 p.m. at the station on Piedmont Avenue. Police said the victim was struck near a bench. A male suspect was taken into custody and the scene remains active, MARTA police Sgt. Deneya Littles confirmed. No university students are believed to have been involved in the incident. "We definitely do have the station closed off on the inside," Littles said. Less than 60 hours earlier, four people, including two 18-year-old Georgia State students, were injured in a shooting near campus about a half-mile from the MARTA station. University President M. Brian Blake said those victims were shot around 5 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of John Wesley Dobbs Avenue and Courtland Street following a nearby incident in which "non-GSU individuals" exchanged gunfire. A woman was taken to the hospital in critical condition, while three others took themselves to the hospital before officers arrived, police said. On Monday, university leaders discussed plans to add more security measures on campus, including more lighting, cameras and call boxes. Blake said officers will be increasing patrols in the area. Georgia State has more than 51,000 students at all of its metro Atlanta campuses. The university has grown significantly but has also grappled with crime. "Our students should feel safe in all spaces on campus. I really want them to feel that way," Blake said. As of late Tuesday afternoon, Littles said investigators were still gathering information about what led to the shooting at the MARTA station.

DeKalb fire officials said they were called to the Texaco on North Decatur Road near DeKalb Industrial Way shortly after 2 a.m. and found heavy flames coming from inside the store. They quickly made sure the fuel lines to the gas pumps were shut off and worked to extinguish the flames, fire Capt. Jaeson Daniels said. The clerk was the only occupant of the store and was already outside, he said. Officials were told that someone poured gasoline inside to set the fire, and while they have not yet confirmed those allegations, it is being investigated as an arson, Daniels said. The gas station's owner, Ameen Hakani, told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution that his employee was at the counter behind bulletproof glass and a locked security cage when the alleged robbers arrived and demanded the cage be unlocked. One of them had a gun, Hakani said, and the clerk saw it. "That's when he knew that they came to rob him," he said. The second suspect had a five-gallon gas can, and when the clerk refused to unlock the cage and come out, they "just poured it on the counter and lit the fire thinking that he's going to come out, but he did not," Hakani said. Instead of complying with the suspects' demands, the clerk called 911 and tried to put out the flames with a fire extinguisher. The store filled with smoke, but he was able to get out without injury, Hakani said. By then, the suspects had already left. Hakani has owned the store for 24 years, he said, and this is the first time someone has set a fire in an attempt to rob the store. "I don't know why he was trying to burn him alive," he said. "They could have poured gas on him if he had opened the (door)." Hakani said he wished he would Janice Foot, 58, of Lithonia, was fired from her position at C.J. Hicks Elementary School prior to her arrest, Conyers police spokesman Lt. Quantavis Garcia said in a statement. The parents of one of the children involved reported Foot to police Nov. 8, and detectives opened an investigation to determine if criminal charges would be appropriate. Investigators were able to review video and audio from the classroom. Garcia said detectives believe Foot was attempting to punish two 5-year-olds by forcibly holding their heads against their desks, preventing them from watching a video with the rest of the class. Garcia did not say how long the children's heads were allegedly held down, but police did note scratch marks and bruising on their heads. Police did not say when the alleged incidents took place or when Foot was fired. A spokeswoman for the Rockdale school system said she could not comment on the matter due to personnel and student privacy laws, but she confirmed that Foot was terminated the same day the report was made to police. Foot had worked for the system for a little more than five years. "Rockdale County Public Schools expects all employees to conduct themselves professionally and ethically in providing a positive teaching and learning environment for students and staff," the spokeswoman said. "We support our law enforcement partners who investigate these matters and bring charges to anyone who allegedly harms a child." Foot was booked into jail Tuesday and released later the same day on $10,000 bond, online records show.

Sheriff's deputies were called to a home on Samoa Way in unincorporated Flowery Branch after a woman called 911 around 6:45 a.m. to report that she had been assaulted, according to the GBI, which is investigating the incident. The sheriff's office said the armed man, identified by the GBI as 57-year-old David James Umpmreyville, threw the woman down the stairs, causing her to suffer multiple abrasions and bruising. He then prevented her from leaving the home, but she was eventually able to flee and take refuge at a neighbor's home. Hall deputies said they attempted to speak to Umpmreyville for more than two hours before calling SWAT officers to the scene. SWAT members were able to make contact with him, but he grew increasingly agitated and refused to follow officer commands, the GBI said. At some point, Umpmreyville exited the house naked with a weapon and fired multiple rounds into the wood line near the residence, officials said. He also made threats to shoot law enforcement if they entered the house, according to the GBI. He then pointed his firearm at a deputy, which is when the deputy fired at him but did not hit him. Umpmreyville then went to a window in the home and pointed his gun at deputies, and another deputy fired at him. That time, Umpmreyville was struck and killed. 2056	11/14/23	8:50 PM	Howard Koplowitz	AL.com	AL	Birmingham		29th St Ensley	Shooting	Shootout Erupts Between Car Break-in Suspects, Homeowner As Birmingham Officer Arrives on Scene: Police	A shootout erupted between two car break-in suspects and the homeowner whose vehicle they targeted as an officer was arriving on the scene Tuesday night in Ensley, police said. The Birmingham Police Department's 911 Communications Division received a call around 8:50 p.m. Tuesday about a car break-in in progress in the 2500 block of 29th Street Ensley, said Officer Truman Fitzgerald. An officer who was already in the area responded to the call, Fitzgerald said. "As he's driving down the street on scene, he hears an exchange of gunfire" and relays that information to a dispatcher, Fitzgerald said. The dispatcher then sent out a "max emergency" alert indicating that an officer may be in harm's way. The officer saw the two male suspects flee the scene. The officer gave chase but lost sight of the suspects. Officers then returned to the scene to investigate. "The preliminary investigation revealed a group of suspects were breaking into a car and they were involved in shootout with the homeowner and the officer was right in the middle of it," Fitzgerald said. Police believe the homeowner was the target of the gunfire and that the homeowner then returned shots. Nobody was hit by gunfire or injured in the incident but the officer's vehicle was damaged, said Fitzgerald. No suspects were in custody as of 10:30 p.m. Tuesday. Police believe the suspects are no longer in the area of the incident and they "don't pose a threat to the general public." Anyone with information on the suspects' whereabouts was asked to call police.

Authorities said Jamal Allen-Fowler, 27, who worked at Chamblee Middle School before the Nov. 15 incident, caused a wreck on Chamblee Dunwoody Road at Harts Mill Court and then fled the scene, according to a police report obtained Thursday by The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Police said that when Allen-Fowler showed up at work that day, the school resource officer reported that he “was on something, they attempted not to let him drive, but he was able to get away from them and get into his vehicle.” Allen-Fowler refused to hand over his car keys and drove away from the parking lot, according to the report. Another motorist told police that Allen-Fowler tried to pass him on the wrong side of the road and he had to swerve, hitting him on the left side and colliding with the front end of a third vehicle, according to the report. Allen-Fowler ran to the passenger side of one of the vehicles and started beating on the front-door window, the report stated. Video of the incident was obtained by witnesses and texted to police, according to the report. “Seeing that he could not break the window, he ripped off the side mirror on the passenger side. He then fled the scene,” the report said.

The shooter fled the scene. No one is in custody. "This street is relatively quiet and mostly elderly people live on this street," Fitzgerald said. "When you have someone that's willing to come and fire that many rounds on a populated residential street, we have seen so many incidents when innocent people have been struck by gunfire." Fitzgerald said today's homicide is a good example where a program announced last week by Police Chief Scott Thurmond and Mayor Randall Woodfin could help bring swift justice in a violent crime. Through Connect Birmingham, residents and business owners with surveillance systems are being asked to allow the city's Real Time Crime Center access to their footage. "Here you have a shooting that took place in broad daylight on a heavily resident street," Fitzgerald said. "Let's just say a few of the houses (on Fifth Street), those cameras would allow our detectives to view footage of the shooting, of the suspects, what they left in, and and it would provide the even more resources so we could combat homicides faster."

Charles Wayne Gresham, 19, is charged with aggravated cruelty to animals. Gresham was taken into custody Thursday. A judge on Friday set his bond at $25,000 cash. Walker County Sheriff's Office animal abuse Investigator Jimmie Vann said the incident happened Wednesday. A passerby found the dog on Quinton Road, with the arrow still protruding from her. The woman picked up the injured dog and took her to a veterinarian's office. Vann said he went to the vet's office and looked at the X-ray. The arrow had entered the dog from the dog's buttocks area and traveled to the abdomen. The veterinarian performed a Cesarean section on the dog, but the mother and the unborn puppies did not survive. Vann went back to Quinton Road to investigate and was able to find a home where he believed the dog lived. No one was home at the time, so he went next door, where he encountered Gresham. "He said, 'I guess you're here about the dog. I shot it. It was growling at my nephew,'" Vann said. The warrant against Gresham was obtained on Thursday. "We take all crimes very seriously, but animal crimes are even more ridiculous than a lot of other ones," Sheriff Nick Smith said. "We will not tolerate animal abuse of any kind, and if we catch you, we will prosecute you to the fullest extent of the law."

"It was very hard to call them and ruin their vacation," Joshua Cavanaugh explained. Cavanaugh said he was taking Scotch and Stogie on a walk in Atlanta's Castleberry neighborhood on Sunday evening after they had finished eating dinner. He said as they were walking down Walker Street – about to turn down on Larkin Street, he noticed three young men standing near the corner. "I didn't think much of it. Cavanaugh said he turned around and then seconds later, things quickly escalated. "As soon as I heard them say 'Hey man,' and I turned back around, there were three guns in my face," he explained. Sheriff Mike Granthum says 18 year old Cedric Long — is wanted for murder and attempted murder — in the case. Wal Babyshowershooting PkgResidents told investigators that they were cleaning up after a baby shower — when the sound of gunshots rang out. “These are people that were at the house enjoying a baby shower of all things. And then when they were cleaning up they hear two gunshots outside the house,” Granthum said. “They were up under the tree, just having a good time, talking, enjoying the family function, celebrating the baby shower. No arguments occurred. Nothing took place that would lead to something like this that anybody was able to witness. They did know that this subject is the one who pulled the trigger. I mean, cause they actually retrieved the gun from him. And he’s avoiding capture. Granthum says Long is in a questionable state of mind — and should be considered — armed and dangerous. So, he wants the public — to be on the lookout. “We’re in the process now of locating him and we will find him. We will locate him. And if you do happen to run across him please call authorities,” said Granthum. “You may think you know him, but what provoked this? We’re still trying to find out what took place? Why he did something like this? We don’t know.” Authorities say Long could be in the Hale County area.

Decharae Key, 28, was arrested last week, nearly three weeks after her infant daughter, Summer Wright, was found dead in their southeast Atlanta apartment Nov. 26, Fulton County court records show. Key faces charges of second-degree murder, second-degree cruelty to children, reckless conduct and aggravated assault. According to a warrant for her arrest, Key had been at the JJ Fish and Chicken restaurant on Pryor Road the night before. The eatery is attached to a Chevron gas station in the Peoplestown neighborhood. Police said Key got to the restaurant with the infant and her 8-year-old daughter around 9 p.m. Security footage showed she left the children in the car and had trouble walking in a straight line when she got out, according to police. The child is then seen getting in and out of the front passenger side until Key returned, at which point the car "sat idle for over an hour," the warrant states. A man arrived shortly before 11 p.m., took a video of Key "visibly under the influence sitting in the driver's seat" and took the children away, investigators noted in the warrant. His relationship to the children is not clear, but the warrant said he lives with Key. Police said he returned to the restaurant a short time later and approached Key, who "jumped out of the vehicle" and began punching and kicking him and then pointed a gun at him. That's what led to the aggravated assault charge. The two eventually returned to their apartment in the Chosewood Park neighborhood and continued arguing until police were called and told the man to spend the night elsewhere, the warrant said. That left Key alone in the home with her baby. When Key woke up shortly

Atlanta police Chief Darin Schierbaum called the incident outside the Israeli Consulate building at 1100 Spring Street an “extreme act of political protest.” He said the arson does not have connections to terrorism and that the surrounding community is safe. “This department is aware of the tensions that are present right now in the Jewish community and in the Muslim community,” Schierbaum said during an afternoon news conference, referring to the numerous protests in Atlanta and across the nation regarding the ongoing war between Israel and Hamas. “We actually have dedicated patrols that are occurring at this location and other Jewish and Muslim communities in the city.” According to Atlanta fire Chief Rod Smith, a security guard noticed someone attempting to set themselves on fire at about 12:20 p.m. and immediately tried to intervene, but failed. The guard was burned on his wrist and leg and was taken to Grady Memorial Hospital. The person, who officials only identified as a protester, received “100-degree burns” to their body and is in critical condition at Grady. “Clearly, this was considered arson,” Smith said. A Palestinian flag that police said was part of the protest was recovered at the scene. Officials determined that gasoline was utilized to start the fire. Schierbaum said the protester did not try to enter the Spring Street building. “Right now, we’re not aware of any credible threat against this location, against the Consulate staff or anyone in this building. We believe this building remains safe and we do not see any threat here,” Schierbaum said.

Jamaurie Lee, of Stone Mountain, boarded the bus at Lawrenceville Highway and Steel Drive in Tucker around 5 p.m. and began threatening the driver, MARTA police told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. The threats came after the driver told the 28-year-old that he didn't have enough money for the fare, according to 95.5 WSB Radio. When the bus driver went to report the threats, the suspect stole the vehicle, police said. For unknown reasons, he drove roughly eight miles to the park, but not before dropping off the passenger at the all-day breakfast joint, the radio station reported. Lee's escapade was cut short when he tried to make a U-turn at the park entrance but didn't know how to put the bus in reverse, park police spokesperson John Bankhead confirmed to the AJC. A park officer spotted the bus and immediately suspected something was wrong, Bankhead said. The officer approached Lee and asked him if he was the driver. When he said no, he was detained, and MARTA police arrived to make the arrest. No injuries were reported, and the bus was not damaged, police said. Lee faces multiple charges, including second-degree hijacking a motor vehicle, terroristic threats and theft. He could face additional charges if police can locate the passenger who was dropped off.

Sumter residents Wade Carl Blackburn, 61, and Theresa Ann Browder, 60, were each charged with grand larceny ($10,000 or more), the sheriff's office said in a news release. Blackburn and Browder were arrested Monday following a months-long investigation. The investigation began in October when a deputy was checking property at the Duke Energy Power substation near Red Bay Road. The deputy saw several rolls of power wire in random locations on the ground and the latch on a lock broken from a shipping container. Investigators found similar incidents where copper wire had been stolen over the past few months, the sheriff's office said. Investigators worked with Duke Energy personnel and came to believe Blackburn and Browder were responsible. During questioning, Blackburn and Browder admitted to the previous incidents. Blackburn and Browder were taken to the Sumter County Sheriff's Office Detention Center and each had bond set at $12,500. Despite the arrests, the sheriff's office is continuing to investigate the copper thefts.

Three other people were treated for injuries. Two vehicles were hit by gunfire in the area near mile marker 89 on I-20. The alleged reason? A driver cut off another driver in traffic more than a mile away, officials said. Gwinnett police confirmed the incident concluded at a home on Stone Drive near Rockbridge Road around 5 p.m., and the homeowners were present at the time. Their security camera captured a pickup truck driver pulling into the driveway trying to get away from two people in a white sedan who had been following him for some time. Both vehicles stop, and a passenger in the car jumps out, aims a gun at the truck and opens fire. The truck driver is then seen quickly backing out of the driveway, hitting the white car with force before getting away. The car's front end was damaged in the process. The entire episode is over within 15 seconds, all while several cars on the two-lane street behind them are stopped in traffic. One driver decided to get out of the way by driving along the grassy shoulder and around the other vehicles, the video shows. No one was injured by the gunfire, police told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. The truck was hit, but the extent of its damage was unclear. Officials could not confirm if other property had been damaged. The suspects, later identified as 29-year-old Deunte Mosley and 30-year-old Angela Willie, were arrested the same day. Mosley is accused of shooting at the victim multiple times, and Willie is said to have chased the victim and then rammed her car into his, according to their arrest warrants. He was transported to Evergreen Medical Center where he was pronounced dead Thursday night. Robinson confirmed Baldwin was stabbed multiple times. He said Clark and Baldwin had engaged in an argument, which turned physical before Clark pulled out a knife and stabbed Baldwin, according to investigators. What prompted the conflict between the two remains under investigation. "It's just so tragic and unfortunate," Hillcrest head coach Justin Nared told AL.com. "I got a phone call late last night. I didn't get a whole lot of details. There were conflicting stories with all the information, but at the end of the day he was stabbed multiple times and later died." Clark has prior convictions for burglary and assault, according to court records. In 2011, he was convicted of beating a man so badly it caused multiple jaw fractures and damaged the other man's eye. He was sentenced to three years in prison, but that sentence was suspended and he was placed on five years probation. The 6-1, 295-pound Baldwin was a "gentle giant," according to Nared. Baldwin was a starting defensive tackle for the Jaguars. "We were trying to get him some junior college opportunities," Nared said. "If that didn't work out, we were trying to get him signed up for the military. He was such a humble kid. He was strong as an ox, but was a big, gentle giant. I hate it for our community."

The three suspects entered Lula Laundry Mat, tucked in between an automotive repair shop and a vintage clothing store on Main Street, where they allegedly aimed to leave with something other than clean laundry, according to the Hall County Sheriff's Office. Terry Lynn Jones, 54, Chassidy Rena Bollinger, 47, and Joshua Brandon Wood, 34, were arrested last week after deputies said they broke into a change machine at the business Dec. 9 and stole more than $2,300 in cash. "The investigation also determined a child under the age of 12 was present at the time of the theft; the child was being used as a lookout while the crime was underway," the sheriff's office said. Following an investigation, Jones and Bollinger were both arrested Dec. 28 and booked into the Hall County jail. They face charges of theft by taking, possession of tools for commission of a crime and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. A day after the heist, Wood also found himself arrested, but in an unrelated financial transaction card theft case, deputies said. He was charged with felony theft by taking Dec. 29 in connection with the incident at the laundromat. All three suspects lived at the same Lula residence and remain in custody, the sheriff's office said. Jones' bond was set at $14,200, while the amounts for Bollinger and Wood were listed at $5,000 and $9,200, respectively, according to online records.

Mobile deputies pulled over a 2018 white Kia Optima traveling eastbound on AL-158 in Wilmer about 3:18 a.m. Saturday. The vehicle had been observed swerving in and out of its lane, so a traffic stop was initiated, according to the Mobile County Sheriff's Office. A deputy approached the passenger side of the vehicle and found a male driver and female passenger. The driver advised he had no driver's license on him, but gave his name, date of birth and social security number — all of which would prove to be phony. After learning the driver had provided false information, the deputy returned to the vehicle, by which time a second deputy had arrived to provide assistance. According to the sheriff's office, both deputies noticed the driver attempting to hide a handgun underneath his right leg. Both deputies drew their weapons, with one firing at the suspect, striking him in both hands. Medical personnel were called to the scene and the suspect was transported to a local hospital for treatment. The female passenger told investigators she had met the suspect at her place of employment. She knew him as Travis Sebastian and said he was homeless. She had agreed to take him to Florida, but during the course of the trip he changed the plan, demanded she withdraw money from her bank account and said they were instead going to Utah. Investigators confirmed the suspect's identity as 34-year-old Hunter Sabastian Bixler of Cedar Park, Texas. Sebastian had an active warrant for possession of a controlled substance out of Travis County, Texas, and a check of NCIC returned an advisory which said "The subject made threats that if he was pulled over by law enforcement

Jamel Bernard Williams, 36, and Kayla Nicole Pyle, 34, turned themselves in this week, a statement from Lancaster County Sheriff Barry Faile said. Williams is charged with first-degree assault and battery, according to law enforcement and online court records. Pyle is charged with second-degree assault and battery, officials said. The incident from Dec. 10 drew national media attention, after the Lancaster County Sheriff's Office charged both Williams and Pyle in late December and publicly announced their wanted status in a Facebook post. The Sheriff's Office has video of the incident but has not released the video publicly. An incident report from the Sheriff's Office in December obtained by The Herald stated there was an alleged dispute between Pyle and the employee over extra chicken costing more money. "At some point, (the employee) advised the female that extra chicken would come at an additional cost." In a statement in late December, Sheriff Faile said the victim decided to end her shift after the verbal dispute, but was pushed to the floor by Williams, who the sheriff said is much bigger than the employee. "He pushed her to the floor and began hitting her, pulling her hair, and jerking her around." Pyle joined in and struck the victim, Faile said. Neither suspect has been convicted of any crime in connection with the incident. Both suspects made first appearances in Lancaster County court and were released on bail, according to the sheriff and court records. Williams posted a $8,500 bond after his arrest. Pyle was released after posting a $5,000 bond.

The letter explains that Harris was questioned at the school, then later left the school for more questioning at the sheriff's office. However, she was arrested after school hours. The letter reads, "Inappropriate behavior around children, by anyone, especially those tasked with leading them, is not tolerated. If your students have any additional information that needs to be shared about this former teacher, please contact the Spalding County Sheriff's Office." This is now a criminal case being handled by the sheriff's office. Harris was denied bond, jail records revealed.

The shooting happened just before 3 a.m. Saturday in the 700 block of 29th Street. Off-duty officers working at nearby clubs got on the police radio and notified dispatchers of shots fired. Officer Truman Fitzgerald said the officer walked across the street from the clubs and saw a person shot near a food truck. They then found a second man wounded, also by the food truck. Birmingham Fire and Rescue Service pronounced one man dead on the scene, and transported the other to UAB Hospital with life-threatening injuries. The preliminary investigation suggests that the victims were involved in an argument with a second group of men and that dispute escalated into a physical fight, and then an exchange of gunfire. "We believe one party from each group fired shots at each other," Fitzgerald said. The two men shot were together. No bystanders were injured. Another food truck was struck by bullets. Fitzgerald said all those involved appeared to know each other. He did not know how many shots were fired but said the number was double digits. "We had a big, big crowd out here, which speaks to just how senseless it was," he said. "An officer told me there was a lot of people out here having a good time."

"I was trying to make him understand there was a miscommunication." A customer picked the man up off Islam and told him to leave, Islam said. "If it was not for him, I'd be dead," Islam said. LaQuitta Wade said the customer was taken to UAB Hospital where he was pronounced dead. Authorities have not released the man's name or commented further on the shooting. Islam said he was taken to the Birmingham Police Administration Building, interviewed and released. "So far, it's self-defense, but they are still investigating," Islam said.
