要旨： A wildfire spreading through part of South Carolina has caused evacuations and closed a portion of one of the busiest roads in the state, officials said. Crews began working to open Interstate 20 near Aiken Wednesday morning, according to the Aiken County Sheriff's Office. All lanes of I-20 were open again by about 9 a.m., according to the South Carolina Department of Transportation. "There will be some smoke in the area near the 14-16 mile markers. We want to reassure the motoring public to take their time in getting to their destination and to give themselves enough space between vehicles while traveling on the interstate," the sheriff's office said in a press release Wednesday morning. According to the Aiken County Sheriff's Office, the fire was spreading rapidly. Trained spotters estimated the size of the fire at 200 acres. Reportedly, the blaze is burning in the areas of Aiken County heading north from exit 11 toward the area of exit 18 along Interstate 20.
